DUNOLLY KARATE CLUB NEEDS HELP

Did you know? We are currently fundraising to hold a karate tournament in Maryborough on Saturday 28 August 2016! It is a HUGE project!

It is going to cost our club a lot of money... a minimum of $5,545.00 for this one-day event... BUT IT WILL BE WORTH IT!

We are doing this to give people in our Community the chance to compete locally, and young families who may not be able to afford to compete and travel, can compete for free, locally in Maryborough! To make this event possible, we need Community Support!

This event will bring a lot of people to Maryborough! Last year we had people from Bendigo, Ballarat, Melbourne, Warrnambool, Mt Gambier, and even as far as New South Wales travelled to Maryborough to compete in our tournament.

We are looking for major sponsors for this Tournament! We would LOVE to hear from businesses who are interested in making donations, or sponsoring this event!

We also have a few fundraising ideas! The first we have coming up is a Mother's day hamper raffle that we will raffle, and draw at the Dunolly Community Market. We are heavily relying on our karate members to donate even just one item each to go into the hamper. We will also be running the BBQ at the Mother's day market 8 May 2016. So please come along, and buy a sausage in bread. We need all the support we can get, and every dollar is going to help!

Please consider this... there are regional kids, right here in Dunolly and Maryborough that NEED these kind of opportunities! There is a lot of hidden talent out here just waiting to be discovered.

We are especially encouraging members from our club to compete!

Your first time at anything is always a bit daunting, but we just want to remind our karate students, you will have 100% support from the club!

If you are interested in competing, then PLEASE speak to Shihan Peter, or Troy ASAP!

The thing about karate is you are often put out of your comfort zone... but you are also given opportunities to gain confidence, and perhaps even succeed in anything you give a go! This is one of those opportunities!

There is still plenty of time, to get you prepared and ready for competition in August!

For anyone who is interested in more information about the Dunolly Karate Club, please contact Melissa Hoban (club secretary) on 0475 344 610

Rosie's Ramble

I am always amused at the end of the Antiques Roadshow on the ABC when a little old Morris Minor comes into view, trundling along an English country road. Sitting up in the back seat is a full suit of armour, complete with helmet, being chauffeured to the show. I see the red dingo (or dog) which was in the window at Williams store has gone to live at the Caravan Museum. There was a warning on the Country Hour the other day about the nasty disease Q fever, which is spread by various animals. The man said it had many serious side effects – including death. Now that IS a serious side effect.

I bought a couple of those sort-your-pills-out-for-the-week containers the other week. Sat there really concentrating on getting all the tablets for Mr. Ramble and myself into the right holes for the right days. This took quite a while as you really don't want to get this wrong. When I finished Mr. Ramble's, I carefully closed all the 14 little lids on his container. However-when it came to shutting my own, I got a bit careless, pushed the first lid a bit too hard – the whole thing slipped and sprayed pills all over the place. I couldn't even think of anything to say!!

With regards to a previous mention of egg poachers I bought from the big German store – I saw another way to poach the humble egg on a cooking show today. First bring the water to the boil, place a strainer in the saucepan, carefully break the egg into the strainer, allow it to cook as you like it and lift out. Lo and behold you have a perfect shaped egg without so much of that pesky stringy white. Pleeeeeease - it is an egg for heaven's sake. We were in the Telstra building in Maryborough the other day and I couldn't but help notice the lovely old lead light panels along the tops of the windows along the Nolan Street wall. These continue down to Alma Street. There are also lovely glazed tiles on the walls of the buildings.

DOG DAYS - My dog's not spoiled.....I'm just well trained

That's great Mum.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I read Councillor Henderson's column last week and have for some time been considering running for council this year, so I thought this might be a good time to announce my intention to run.

I moved to Dunolly from Lancefield in mid 2012 with my wife, Shelley, and two children, then aged six and three. We were looking for somewhere to settle and whilst looking at properties in towns across Central Victoria we came across Dunolly. I hadn't been to Dunolly before but had visited areas around Dunolly quite often. We fell in love with the friendly town and decided to move here even though we could not find the right place to buy at the time and so we rented for the first year.

I joined the SES, the CFA and the Gilbert & Sullivan Festival Committee and I helped out at the museum for a while and got a bit of knowledge of the history of the area. Shelley joined the Gilbert & Sullivan Society and committee, did a stint on the kinder committee, and joined the D Sharps. Between us I believe we have our finger on the pulse of Dunolly and district. Having a degree in agricultural science I have always been interested in rural industry. I have become very interested in the plight of small towns and am passionate about preserving the viability of the lifestyle that these offer. I believe that, though we cannot expect the same level of all services as in the city, at least a basic level is needed for people to be able to, and want to, live in a small town. As for Dunolly and Bealiba, we certainly need to maintain the level of services we now have and even improve them a bit.

Last year I decided to start working towards making a difference and I joined the Australian Country Party, which is not the same as the old National Party, but an independent party which started up about 11 years ago with its main base in Victoria. I invite you to look up their web page at countryparty.org.au to find out more about their ideology which can be summed up by the slogan Rural, Regional, Recreational (by the way, according to the Australian Bureau of Statistics and governments, if you will take note, Dunolly is not a town but classified as rural). It is my intention to represent Flynn ward and work towards the goals of maintaining and improving services, and also campaign for development in the ward to ensure a viable future.

Yours sincerely Costantino (Costa) Di Biase

Sour about "Cookery Corner"

Welcome Record where is your social responsibility? One in eight people are seriously overweight. It is endangering their and the community's health. The government is using our taxes to try to stop Australians consuming sugar, showing TV ads.

Now look at page 22 Volume 31 Issue 12 of The Welcome Record. The recipe has: 1/4 cup brown sugar, 1/4 cup white sugar, 1 tbl golden syrup.

Sauce, 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup white sugar, 1 tbl golden syrup. It is a recipe for 4 servings.

Each person consuming equivalent of 1/2 cup sugar each and to top it off... Serve with vanilla ice-cream!"

Shame Welcome Record! Shame!

The Tree of Knowledge

In response to our little article on the front page last week, Tom Benson, a reasonably new resident of Dunolly (two years), offered some information on other Trees of Knowledge, wherein nearly all rural towns have one. Most of them are either outside the general store, or post office, but often in the caravan park. Under their branches people congregate and talk about the day's events, mainly prospectors who may have had some luck with digging up some gold and would like to raise a glass or two in celebration of their finds.

Tom has also passed on the following information about the tree in Barcaldine Qld that became the icon for the Australian Labor Party.

The ghost gum Eucalyptus Papuana, which grew outside the Railway station, earned its claim to fame as the founding site of the political movement we now know as the Australian Labor Party. In 1891 Barcaldine was the centre for the striking shearers during the "Great Shearers Strike" when they met under its boughs. In May 1891, about 300 shearers marched under the "Eureka" flag to put forward their protests. Against poor working conditions and low wages. Because the area beneath the Tree of Knowledge was the scene of actions and decisions which had a profound effect on the future of labour and politics in Australia, it has become an icon of the Labor Party and Trade Unions.

The Tree of Knowledge was included in the National Heritage List on 26 January 2006. Sadly it was poisoned in 2006 and did not recover.

More Knowledge

It was most pleasing to read in The Welcome Record that the seat around the tree outside the post office is to be re-instated. It was regularly occupied by the town's "old timers" for many years. We used to refer to them as the wise old owls. I remember once my late mother-in-law, who always enjoyed a chat with the locals, left her walking stick there and one of her chatting companions took it home, not knowing to whom it belonged. Ma had no idea where she had left it so we put an ad in The Welcome Record and in no time her cherished stick, which had been her mother's before her, was returned. I think I might go and have a sit on that seat myself when it appears. I am sure I would qualify.

Response to Sour about Cookery Corner

The Welcome Record publishes many diverse recipes, many that may not be appropriate for certain dietary needs, e.g. dishes containing peanuts may be harmful to people with peanut allergies. However, the majority of people will enjoy the dish. Similarly, the majority of people will enjoy sweet dishes. Granted, this recipe was extra sweet, containing large amounts of sugar, however, the recipe was taken from a book entitled "Sugar & Spice" by Jo Seagar - recipes that focus on sugary treats.

As we are unbiased with our news items, so we are unbiased with our recipes. It is the individual's choice whether to use that recipe.

Bridge Load Reductions Mullins' and Freemantle's Bridges

In order to comply with council's responsibilities under the Road Management Act, Council undertakes a number of independent structural assessments on shire bridges over the course of the year. As a result of the 2015-2016 assessments, Council is required to reduce the load capacity on the following two bridges, to a 20 tonne limit;

- (B0117) Mullins' Bridge on Mullins' Road, and
- (B036) Freemantle's bridge on Bet Bet Mt Hooghly Road

Both of the above bridges will be limited to 20 tonne for all future traffic.

Central Goldfields Shire has 258 bridges and major culverts, and Council maintains an active inspection and maintenance program for all of these structures. Many structures are the result of works undertaken in the 1960's which unfortunately, were neither designed nor constructed with current traffic loads in mind.

Council is currently preparing a request for tenders to replace its last timber composite bridge structure located on Bet Bet Creek Road Timor. These works will cost an estimated $500,000 with half of the funding derived from external sources.

Further information can be obtained by contacting the Council office.

Local Government Act Review

Have your say.

Councils – roads, rates and rubbish or something more? The Victorian Government is conducting the first comprehensive review in a quarter of a century of the Local Government Act 1989. This review responds to calls from the local government sector for legislative reform after over 90 amending acts have resulted in hundreds of individual amendments to the Act in the past 25 years.

Government is seeking feedback on all aspects of the Local Government Act, from:

- the Local Government sector
- ratepayers and residents associations members of the public

Volunteers at The Welcome Record

This week's profile Susan Anderson

Readers of The Welcome Record will no doubt be familiar with the names of our volunteer staff, but may not always be able to put a face to a name. Therefore we decided to introduce you to our staff. This week we will tell you about one of the co-editors, Susan (Sue) Anderson.

Sue can trace her interest in writing back to her success at school, winning prizes for short story and essay competitions. After school Sue first worked as a junior shipping clerk and later climbed the ladder and advanced her qualifications in many diverse industries, including travel where she had a glamour job of Travel Courier. This entailed welcoming overseas guests to Melbourne and showing them the sights and delights of our fair city. She got paid for sightseeing, theatre shows, cocktail parties and shopping sprees! However, the odd hours required for this job were not conducive to someone about to get married, therefore with great reluctance she resigned to marry and start a family.

When her son began school Sue re-entered the workforce and after a number of minor jobs, became PA to the Dean of Geographical & Geological Engineering at RMIT. From there she moved on to become a junior department head for a large transport company. However, wearying of city life, Sue and her partner Joe decided on early retirement and a move to rural Victoria and found their present house in Dunolly four years ago. With the house still in renovation mode, Sue started to look around for things to do to expend all that dormant energy. First she joined the Dunolly Neighbourhood walking group where she met Jean Anderson who told her how The Welcome Record was in need of extra typists. So Sue volunteered her typing skills and became interested in the production side of The Welcome Record, and then, when Marion retired, Sue did a crash course in editing, layouts, production and general production of the local paper. She co-edited the paper together with Coral Christensen and later Faye Arnold. Sue also became committee secretary for one year; now the post is held by Faye.

Apart from her dedicated hours on The Welcome Record, Sue belongs to our local Gilbert and Sullivan Society in which she has taken lead roles. Her enjoyment of singing led to Sue joining the D Sharps A Cappella group. Sue is also a member of The Red Hat Society Goldfields Chapter where she is also their Social Secretary. In her spare time, if there happens to be any, Sue has been writing a book or two and hopes to one day publish The Great Australian Novel!

NOTES FROM OUR COUNCILLOR

The Dunolly Public Places and Street Tree Advisory Committee has endorsed a plan proposed by Council Officers to give Rene' Fox Gardens a makeover.

An existing sprinkler system, that hasn't been used since pre-drought, was found to be largely operational, there were some repairs done where marquee pegs had punctured the line, and faulty solenoids have been replaced.

Works to upgrade the gardens will include renewing and formalising the gravel paths and car park, re-edging the garden bed, plantings, removing and renewing the old picnic tables and of course having a green patch thanks to the sprinklers.

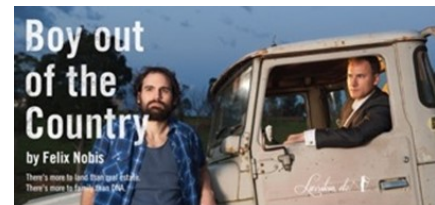

Rene' Fox is a memorial Garden and must be reflective of Rene'; she was certainly passionate about roses. The Committee agrees that plantings within the gardens must reflect Rene's passion.

The Committee is also committed to making Gordon Reserve more user friendly. It has been requested that the playground be consolidated rather than spread apart as it currently is. This is currently being assessed by Council Officers and is awaiting a proposal to be put forward to the committee. It has been asked that a green grassed area also be part of the consideration

'BOY OUT OF THE COUNTRY' COMES TO DUNOLLY

There's more to land than real estate.
There's more to family than DNA.

Funny, fast paced, and written in an Australian poetic vernacular reminiscent of the poetic tradition of Banjo Patterson, Boy out of the Country tells a story of land, family and belonging. A family property worthless for generations is suddenly re-zoned as part of a regional housing estate to accommodate an ever increasing urban sprawl. It is a play where old Australia meets a new Australia: where a country cop comes to terms with catchment areas, where a fifth bedroom is more important than a backyard and where new technologies have the potential of uncovering old family secrets. Written with wit and in crackling Australian idiom by award winning playwright Felix Nobis, this is a fast paced, funny and highly satisfying piece of theatre about life beyond the big city.

Boy out of the Country by Larrikin Theatre is part of Regional Arts Victoria Touring Program, and will be performing in Dunolly's Historic Precinct Town Hall on Sunday 15 May. Afternoon tea commences at 2pm with the show commencing at 3pm. Tickets are $30 including afternoon tea and bookings can be made online at dunollyhistoricprecinct.com.au

VOTING EXTENDED - VOTE NOW FOR THE BIG ONE

Voting for the biggest social issue in our community is now open until midnight 26 April 2016.

Momentum is building with over 700 votes now recorded on the OurSay online forum. The Maldon & District Community Bank has extended the voting deadline to ensure everyone has a say.

"We've opened the voting right up to the day before the community conference on Wednesday 27 April 2016. We've had a real spike in voting in the last week, across 60 ideas ranging from supporting volunteers, mental health first aid, business incubation and helping children become more confident and resilient," said Community Bank's Executive Officer Karly Smith.

The Community Bank embarked on The Big One: Your Community, Your Say campaign to find the biggest social issue or problem in the region. The bank is committed to addressing this issue over the next three to five years to improve the quality of life in the communities it serves.

Events and projects will continue to receive bank support through its sponsorships and grants program. The Maldon & District Community Bank has added this new category of funding to address the deep underlying social issues in our communities.

Go online now to www.oursay.org/mdcb/thebigone to tell the Community Bank what issue or issues are the most important in our communities. You don't have to be a customer of the bank to participate, just a member of the communities the bank serves – including Dunolly, Bealiba, Eddington, Moliagul, Laanecoorie, Tarnagulla and the Mount Alexander Shire. Everyone has 7 votes to put on one issue or spread across a number of issues.

"For those without internet access I encourage you to go online at the Dunolly RTC internet café or to your local public library. There is also a telephone service available to register ideas – call 9020 4503 and follow the prompts. You can also call me on 0478 435 110 or Bank Chairman Genevieve Barlow (0427 762 633) and we can provide assistance," said Karly.

The top five voted issues will be considered at the community conference on 27 April. It will be held at the Maldon Community Centre, with supper at 6pm for a 6.30pm start. The community will make recommendations to the Maldon & District Community Bank board at the conference, and at least one issue will emerge for the bank to address to strengthen our communities.

"It's going to be an exciting night. The Bank Board is looking forward to seeing what issues emerge as the top five, and then working with those at the conference to find the one big issue that the bank will support. Get voting and make sure you come along to the conference to have your say!" urged Karly.

RSVPs for the community conference can be made at the Dunolly Community Bank agency at the RTC or by contacting Karly Smith on executiveofficer@mdcb.com.au or 0478 435 110.

Fabulous Marilyn

Tansy Curtain, the exhibition curator of the Bendigo Art Gallery, has once again put together an excellent display with this one featuring Marilyn Monroe. I was not surprised at how good the exhibition was, because I have been to a few presentations at the gallery over the years and they have all been outstanding in their own way. I was surprised, however, by how much enjoyment I got out of this one.

The first couple of rooms at the gallery are arranged with photos of Marilyn, many from her days before she became a star; there is also plenty of memorabilia from her estate. Marilyn had specified in her Will that her personal effects were to be distributed amongst her friends, but perversely the two people who cleared out her house also packed up her belongings and put them into storage for many decades.

There have been many auctions over the years since the items have been released for sale, for instance, the famous Jean Louis-designed dress, made from soufflé (a fine woven material designed to resemble skin) dyed to the exact shade of Marilyn's skin and encrusted with sparkling brilliants. She wore this form-fitting gown when she sang "Happy Birthday" at President Kennedy's birthday gala held in New York. Realising more than US$1.5 million, this dazzling gown became the single most expensive item ever sold at auction. The dress was purchased by a private collector and has not been seen since. (Tansy Curtain, essay Understanding Marilyn, 2016.)

Also displayed in a glass case at the exhibition, were Marilyn's copies of scripts for two films in which she starred. Included on the scripts were her handwritten notes. I had to wonder how much these had cost the present owner. Apparently any item, be it clothing or a cooking utensil, that can be authenticated as being worn by, or having belonged to Marilyn, can be sold for extraordinary amounts of money.

Among the many articles of clothing displayed are some from Marilyn's own wardrobe and they are subdued, classic styles and very different from the clothes worn by her in publicity photos, or in the movies.

And then, of course, there are the rooms containing the glamorous gowns, which are stunning. These gowns were mostly owned by the studios and would have been returned to the wardrobe department after filming, where they would be stored or sometimes altered and worn by other actors. The gold lame gown, which Marilyn wore in Gentlemen Prefer Blondes, was there and although it was only seen briefly from the back in the film it was used in many of the publicity shots to advertise the film.

The exhibition evoked so many memories for me from the 1950s, when going to the movies, or to the pictures as we called them then, was the highlight of the week. Living in a small town where there was only one film screened, we went along and watched whatever was showing.

As I looked at the film clips running continuously in one of the rooms and listened to the old familiar songs featured in them, memories came flooding back. I realise that the colour and glamour these films brought into my life then could never be replicated, but the atmosphere at this exhibition came close, with its reminders of that long forgotten excitement of "going to the pictures".

Goldfields firefighters honoured with award

More than 100 CFA volunteers from the Goldfields region have been recognised for their efforts to protect the community during the 2009 bushfires.

The group was recognised for its service rendered during the Black Saturday fires in 2009 with a presentation of National Emergency Medals on Sunday 20 March.

Firefighters from the Goldfields Group of Fire Brigades were joined by their families for the special ceremony held at the Maryborough Highland Society.

The large turn-out included Member for Ripon Louise Staley, Central Goldfields Shire Council Mayor Geoff Lovett, Cr Helen Broad (Tullaroop Ward), VFBV Board Member Samantha Rothman, VFBV State Councillor Darryl Wagstaff and Goldfields Group Officer Robert Ipsen.

All 10 brigades within the Goldfields Group – Bealiba, Bowenvale, Carisbrook, Dunolly, Maryborough, Moolort and Joyces Creek, Mt Cameron, Natte Yallock, Talbot and Wareek and Bung Bong – were represented with more than 100 Australian National Emergency Medals awarded by CFA Duty Chief Officer Bruce Byatt and District 2 Operations Manager Steven Smith.

Goldfields Group Officer Robert Ipsen acknowledged the hard work undertaken by the firefighters and the invaluable support of their families.

"Some of the members that received this prestigious award were part of the first and second crews into Kinglake," Mr Ipsen said.

"Black Saturday had an enormous impact on Victorians, especially on the lives of these individuals."

FLYING WAS HIS PASSION

The ongoing story of Maurice Butler's love of flying

Maurice really loved Beechcraft aircraft, so strong and wonderful to fly. We had been flying a Beechcraft Debonair that had become available, owned by a Melbourne solicitor. Maurice had always jokingly said to the owner, "If you ever want to sell 'alpha uniform delta' please let me know and give me the first knockback". Imagine his surprise when having sold our property in Yarrambat on vendor terms the new owner, a surveyor, rang Maurice and asked if he would mind if he paid him out as the old title allowed him to subdivide but he must be the owner. Then . . . the solicitor rang and said he had to sell the Debonair, with three daughters in university. Whoopee. She certainly was his baby and we did lots of flying from then on. We certainly got to know Victoria as we had only moved from Sydney in 1968 when Maurice took on the job of Data Processing Manager. Flights to Sydney to visit the family instead of that long drive were most enjoyable. Kingscote on Kangaroo Island became a regular haunt visiting John and Jenny Ailiffe and camping on the beach each Australia Day weekend. We had quite a team of good fun followers too, ha! We regularly visited Tocumwal for gliding with the world famous champion glider pilot Ingo Renner and the Monash Flying Club had no trouble filling aircraft for those beautiful weekends. With Maurice's enthusiasm the club had about 80 members, not all pilots, just folks interested in flights away and the luscious cray bakes (boils) we had each year.

Maurice continued his night circuits and ADF orientation practice and even convinced me into night circuits just in case we were caught out after dark.

For more than four people aboard he loved the A36, six/seven-seater Beechcraft. In May 1976 good friends, a family who regularly visited us on the farm at Yarrambat to get their three lovely children used to animals, asked if we would take them around Australia. They did not have to ask twice! We left Moorabbin, enjoyed the Duke's hospitality in Andamooka, Ayers Rock, Alice Springs, Fitzroy Crossing, Broome, Kununurra, Darwin, Tindal (Katherine), Karumba (those prawns, ahhhh) Cairns (that reef, wow) Dunk Island, Townsville, Brampton Island, Mackay, Great Keppel Island, Rockhampton, Lightning Ridge, Nyngan, West Wyalong, Corowa to Moorabbin. They still talk about that delightful trip. Time spent on the islands was especially good with lots of swimming in lovely warm clear waters. The weather turned black as we approached Corowa so we were forced to land and hoped it would pass. Before departing the aircraft on landing a pilot called us to enquire about the weather as he needed advice – he was caught in the crud. We advised that he continue to Corowa as the visibility was still OK but very black to the south. He continued from Benalla and was most grateful – he kissed the ground. We checked the weather on the radio then made it home safely.

Matilda's Story

*Entrant in The Welcome Record Animal Story Competition
by Wes Jolly*

She had beautiful, big brown eyes and lovely, long curving horns. She was a Jersey cow and the first one we ever had.

Dad called her Matilda because when she was a very tiny calf he carried her home in a bag and said he was carrying his swag or "Waltzing Matilda". After a while though, we only called her Tilda.

Dad had to teach her to drink milk out of a bucket. She was too big to drink out of a bottle. She could drink three big buckets of milk a day.

We kept her in the house yard as she grew up but we couldn't play with her like we did with the lambs because she grew so big. As she got bigger she started to eat grass but also started to eat other things too. She liked the washing on the line and often had a nibble. One day Mum caught her with a tablecloth half way down her throat and had to pull it out. Mum got mad and said that the calf had to go out in a paddock.

Tilda was Dad's first cow and he loved her. She loved him too and would run up to him whenever he went out in the paddock and would want to be scratched behind her horns. If she wanted your attention she would nudge you with her horns. As she got bigger her horns grew longer and sharper. One day Dad put her in the bale and sawed the ends off her horns and he kept the pieces in his drawer.

When she was two years old Tilda had her first calf and Dad started milking her. I called the calf Bluebell. Each night the calf was locked in a shed so that she couldn't drink the milk and Dad would milk Tilda in the morning. He would leave some milk for the calf to drink and let the calf out when he finished. It was my job each night to lock up the calf.

As I grew older Dad taught me how to milk a cow and I had to milk every weekend. Dad said he had to have two days off each week. Sometimes it was fun, but other times.... When my sister got older she had to milk too, and she hated it. She used to pretend that Tilda was kicking the bucket and said she was frightened. Dad growled at her. One day the dog barked and made Tilda jump. Dad fell over and landed in a cow pat. He was mad at the dog.

Over the years Tilda had a lot of calves, so always supplied milk. Milking was done in the mornings. It was alright in summer, but I didn't like it in the winter. You had to get out of bed while it was still dark and light a lantern in the shed. On a cold, frosty morning it was warm to cuddle into Tilda, but on a rainy morning she would be dripping with water and you had to dry her with a cloth so the water wouldn't run into the milk. Dad always said he could get out of bed and do the milking without waking up. I suppose he could, as he had more patience than us. One morning while it was still dark he came running in and woke us all up because it was snowing. It was the first time it had ever happened in our district.

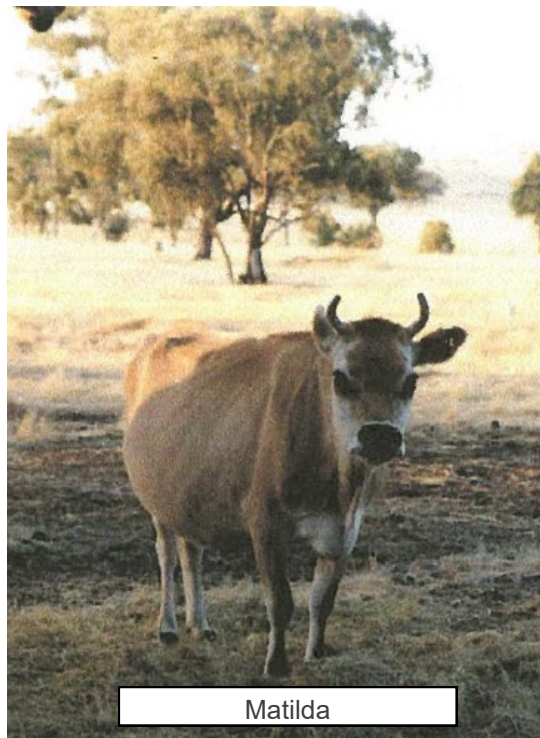

Mum used to make butter with the cream we got from the milk from our cows and when there was plenty of milk Dad sometimes bought a pig to fatten with the extra milk.

When Tilda got old she couldn't have any more calves so Dad had to sell her. He didn't like doing that at all. When we took her to the sale Dad said he got dust in his eyes and that was why his eyes were wet.

Not long after that he bought another Jersey cow which we called Endora, after the lady on the TV show bewitched. She was very quiet and all of us could pat her. By then the younger kids of the family were old enough to do the milking and our turn didn't come around as often. Dora was very quiet, but it was funny how she always seemed to kick when my younger sister was milking. She never seemed to get much milk when it was her turn.

Since then we have had other cows, but we will always remember the first ones. Perhaps one day I'll tell you about Ginny.

Heart attack victim reunites with paramedics

Last week, Waanyarra local, Dennis Lacey and wife Ros, had the opportunity to be reunited with the paramedics who attended to his case, when he fell unwell back in December last year.

Dennis was sitting on the couch watching television when, without any warning, he suffered a cardiac arrest.

"I didn't have any chest pain, or any other signs, when I had the cardiac arrest," Dennis said. "All I remember was waking up three days later in a hospital in Melbourne."

Ros said, while the couple were in the lounge room, she noticed Dennis suddenly shudder.

"I thought Dennis was dreaming, so I shook him and said to him, 'wake up, you're dreaming'," she said. "He shuddered again, which got my attention, so I shook him again, and then I asked him if he could hear me."

When Dennis didn't answer her, Ros immediately called Triple Zero and her neighbour Sue Henderson - who was quickly on scene. Sue immediately commenced CPR and called another neighbour, Val Cunsolo to help. Sue and Val performed effective CPR on the 66-year old, and continued until paramedics arrived at the country property.

Val said, she had done first-aid training in the past, but had never done CPR on a person who was in cardiac arrest before. "The CPR training I did certainly helped me a lot the day Dennis collapsed. It was also good having Sue there, who has done CPR before, because I had confidence in what I was doing," Val said.

Once paramedics arrived, they took over treating Dennis.

Dennis' nephew, Troy Harvey, is a Melbourne-based paramedic and said this case highlights how imperative CPR is, prior to the arrival of an ambulance. "The outcome of this case is amazing. My uncle has come home deficit free after such a short period of time," Troy said. "Without immediate bystander CPR, this situation would have been a lot different."

Further highlighting the importance of early CPR is Ambulance Victoria's Research and Evaluation Manager, Dr Karen Smith. "Bystanders are the critical first link in the 'chain of survival' and can help keep patients alive before our highly-trained paramedics arrive," she said.

Troy was not only thankful to Sue and Val for their incredible help on the day his uncle collapsed, but was also grateful for the work of his rural colleagues. "As a paramedic, we respond to cardiac arrests every day, but when it's your own family, it's amazing the gratitude you have for the people who respond to these kinds of cases," Troy said. "When it hits home like that, it's a lot different to just doing it (CPR) day-in day-out to complete strangers."

Anthony McQueen, a MICA Paramedic who attended to Dennis back in December said, when he arrived on scene, Dennis was still in cardiac arrest, and had to be airlifted to Melbourne for further treatment. "Dennis has bounced back extremely well, and a big part of that is thanks to the effective CPR done prior to our arrival."

Bianca Villarosa, Ambulance Victoria

Eddington News

Eddington has been very busy lately, firstly the Sprint meeting on 19 March, which as usual was a very big day. Thank you for the great photos of the sprint cars in your paper.

Our workers in the clubhouse were once again fantastic and, as I said last year, we are so lucky to have the assistance of some youngsters who stand at the counter all day with their fresh happy faces, serving with quiet efficiency. Thank you so much, Clem, Nino, Allegra and Tamika.

Thank you also to Rod for the bread, Matt for the meat, Halls garage for the Ice, and the Bealiba pony club for the counter fridge.

Also, a big thank you to the Bendigo Bank for a sizeable donation toward our new fridges and to Maryborough Toyota for another great donation. These donations help enormously toward the cost of the infrastructure necessary to cater for such a huge crowd.

Last weekend the miniature trains had a big meet, once again with people camping and enjoying the great facilities we have here. There were some really good photos of this in last week's paper.

ANZAC DAY

This year we will start at 2pm so that the horse riders can go to the Dunolly service in the morning.

After a short session in the schoolyard, where the children will be presented with a certificate, there will be a short march to our memorial rock led by a bagpiper.

There we will have the flag raised, a wreath laid, an interesting guest speaker will address the crowd, the Ode read, the last post, then afternoon tea.

More details next week.

Thank you.
Val Morrison.

COMPUTER SECURITY

Fake callers pretending to be Microsoft or from Telstra and offering help to 'fix' a security problem on your PC are still active. If you get one of these calls, don't even waste time chatting to these callers hang up as soon and as noisily as possible. The 'caller' will try and guide gullible computer owners through the process of installing a so-called 'patch' which will actually add malware apps to the machine, monitoring passwords, stealing personal information and making your PC part of a "botnet" used to distribute spam and other nasties.

Microsoft is never going to ring anyone to tell them they have a security problem, and neither is any security vendor. Never give details to them of Credit Cards or personal details as they are just trying to defraud you.

WHAT IS SUSPICIOUS?

To have a suspicion, you must suspect the honesty of a person, thing or act. Suspect as defined in the Concise Oxford Dictionary is:

Have an impression of the existence or presence.

Believe tentatively without clear ground.

Be inclined to think.

Be inclined to mentally accuse; doubt the innocence of.

Doubt the genuineness or truth of.

When a person, thing or act leaves a question mark in your mind, then it is suspicious. When it is suspicious call the police.

In the Vegie Patch with Alf

This time last year, we were hoping to get some good rains. Now we are still waiting for rain, and so are most of the plants. However gardening must go on, in spite of the season's conditions. While trying to keep some plants alive that are making growth, there are some seeds and plants that do need to be sown or planted out this month.

Light frosts can start later this month, so it is wise to sow seeds or plants of frost resistant plants now while there is some reasonable good growing weather and the soil is still warm. If gardeners do not want to chance another very dry autumn, the soil can be turned over and fertilized for the later planting. By keeping the soil turned over and fertilized for the later planting it helps to upset the breeding cycle of pests and also helps to keep the weeds from obtaining a hold in the soil.

For any gardener who prefers to grow their own asparagus plants, now is a good time to try your luck. It is one of the few perennial types available and can produce up to twenty years! Two year old crowns are the best to start with. They are better covered over during the winter months with a good layer of compost and manure. The tips or spears should not be cut out for the first season after planting. This allows the crown to become established, and to form many new buds.

Broad beans can be sown near the end of this month, but later sowings are more successful. Seeds or plants of the white onion can go into the garden bed this month. Also seeds of the long keepers can be sown, nearer the end of April. These onions are slow growers and they do like the soil to be warm. The seed does not germinate well in cold soil. Late short varieties of carrots sown now can still result in a very useful crop. They will not grow a large root, but can be very welcome in late spring when the winter crop is spent. Telephone peas can be sown in containers and transplanted when grown enough; they do need a sheltered position and where they can get the most sunshine.

Now the fruit tree leaves are starting to fall, don't waste them. They make very good mulch and rot down rapidly. They are also very good for the warm pits. If maple birch or walnut trees need pruning, now is the right time. If pruned during winter they are more likely to bleed.

Happy Gardening Alf

Our April meeting was held at the Bakery, as the SES needed their unit. What a great excellent excuse to drink nice coffee. Next month we will finally go to our belated birthday trip to Bendigo to see the Marilyn Monroe Exhibition. The monthly meeting will be at the SES at 10am, then we will car pool to Bendigo for lunch, and then on to see Marilyn. Should be a great day.

We are hoping to organise a Women Walk the World event later in the month or early next month. This event would involve the Women of Dunolly, as well as CWA.

The Group Conference in August will be at Sutton Grange. The competitions will be an iced orange cake in an 8 inch ring tin; jar of three fruits marmalade; a floral arrangement. The group effort is knitted knee rugs.

Newstead is hosting a Tillow Fashion Parade on Thursday 21 April at 10.30am, $10 entry. Three members brought flowers and got two points each.

DUNOLLY SOCIAL CYCLISTS

Our ride on the 3 April saw a large group participating which is most encouraging, in fact only four regulars were missing due to family commitments. I would like to welcome a new member to the group, Jenny Wagstaff, also to thank Ian Delacy for returning for the day and swapping bikes with Colleen Stratford when she had a puncture. Due to a navigation error, the planned route was not followed exactly but everyone enjoyed the route taken and the planned one can be done in the future. Anna supplied a surprise birthday cake at the finish for one of the group, thanks Anna.

The planned ride for 17 April is something different as it's basically "around the houses", about 18kms all around Dunolly. See you there 9am Sunday 17 April. Suits all bikes.

For this week's round, we had a full board of players, our lawn bowlers returning and with an extra visitor from Melbourne as well. The competition was keen, the fun being had was obvious from the laughter being heard, but the results were just what would be expected. Skipper Joe Battison led his team to 3 points again. However every team won at least one of the games of 8 ends, so no one went home "empty handed". Joe's team was Alan Chamings, Garry Coburn, and 'Tige' Coburn. All male team! Look out fellas, we'll be after you next week!

Cookery Corner

Persian Love Cake

Ingredients

360g almond meal
220g raw sugar
220g brown sugar, firmly packed
120g unsalted butter, softened
2 eggs, lightly beaten
250g Greek-style yoghurt, plus extra to serve
1 tbsp freshly grated nutmeg finely grated zest of ½ a lemon 100g pistachio kernels, split orange segments, to serve

Method

1. Preheat oven to 180C (160C fan-forced). Grease and line a 26 cm (10½ in) springform cake tin.
2. Combine almond meal, sugars, butter and add a pinch of salt in a bowl. Rub the butter into the dry ingredients until it is evenly incorporated; the mixture should be crumbly, but still able to be squashed into a ball.
3. Split the mixture in half and press one half evenly into the base of your prepared tin.
4. Add the eggs, yoghurt, lemon zest and nutmeg to remaining crumbled mixture and beat with a wooden spoon until smooth and creamy. Pour over prepared base, smooth top, scatter pistachios around edge and bake until golden (35-45 minutes, it's cooked when the top is deep brown and the edges look caramelised).
5. Cool on a wire rack, then carefully remove from the tin. Serve with more yoghurt and a few orange segments.

Notes: This cake will keep in an airtight container for up to a week. Also individual slices can be wrapped in baking paper and placed in an airtight container for freezing.

Show and Shine

Last Saturday saw a gathering of car enthusiasts at Deledio Reserve to admire the efforts of people who had lovingly restored many classic cars. The event was in support of DFNC and comprised a swap meet/market, jumping castle for the kids, licensed bar for the adults and great music by our own Oozin Blues to end the show.
