Click Exhibition a great success

The pavement outside the Town Hall was packed with students, teachers, family and friends for the opening of the Click Photographic Exhibition which was held last weekend. The official opening was performed by the Year 5/6 Captains and Vice Captains. When the doors opened to the exhibition, it was smiles all round as the photos were of a high calibre and really embraced the Dunolly Primary School's core values of Respect, Resilience, Community and Achievement.

The photographs were beautifully exhibited in black frames and also some of the images were printed onto fabric bunting which festooned the hall.

Click Photography Exhibition

The photographs were the stars of the show and many a budding photographer will be born out of this initiative brought about by the Dunolly Primary School and its main sponsor The Cass Foundation, a private philanthropic organization from Melbourne. The Foundation funded the project to buy the iPads which enabled the artists Anna and Phil Ashton to put the project in motion.

The Project Manager, Lyndall Jones, from the Cass Foundation attended the exhibition and said, "This is the second project we have undertaken with the Dunolly Primary School. It is a terrific school and they are so fortunate to have such focused and dedicated teachers".

I also spoke to Erin Harding (year 5/6 teacher) who observed that the positive spin-off from the project was that all students on any level could achieve success via the project. It engaged students on so many levels, boosted self esteem and was invaluable for school involvement.

There was a guest comments book and these are just a few of the excerpts:

Such a wonderful collaboration of talented artists. Well done to all involved - great work.

Absolutely fabulous exhibition. We are fortunate to have such dedicated students, members of our community contributing and the amazing Ms Scholes for coordinating such an inspirational display.

Who could have thought such young children could take such terrific photos.

What a bevy of talent we have in our midst. In the future I hope to see some more great exhibitions. Well Done.

Fantastic to see our rural youth being so creative with photography - a credit to all.

If you didn't get to the exhibition you will have the chance to see it at the upcoming Bealiba Thru the Lens Photography Competition where the works will be on show again. Bealiba Thru the Lens, 16 October at the Bealiba Community Hall from 10am till 4pm.

Rosie's Ramble

Some people on TV say some very odd things. Mike Larkins came up with this one last week – "if Phar Lap was still alive, he'd be the same age as the Queen" HUH or should that be DUH!

I managed to cut the knuckle on my finger on the dog food tin last week and had to wear a Band-Aid on it to hold the edges together, and had to wear a latex glove to keep the whole thing dry. Have you tried to wash your hair while wearing a glove? It's very odd – no matter how thin the gloves are.

When are the media going to stop referring to any group of Australians who get into trouble overseas as the number? The latest is the really silly Budgie Nine – a silly name for silly fellows. I have yet to hear theone, when one person gets into trouble.

I had a random thought after that stupid person up north got himself in trouble in the floods twice in one day. Do you think that the wonderful SES, Police & CFA rescuers may have left him in the tree for longer than was necessary when it was clear he was not going anywhere? I for one, would not blame them – they had enough real work to do.

This is a report on bird sightings. When I got out of the car in the IGA carpark the other day I noticed a lady standing very still taking photos of the Phillips Gardens, I know they are nice, but ... When I had a look for myself, I saw she was taking pictures of a pair of swans out on the grass with their four pretty creamy coloured cygnets – a fairly unusual sight.

The maggies in our yard have become quite fat on the food that is in the grass since the rain. I have seen a couple of them dragging worms out of the ground. It is amazing how long a worm can become when a bird is leaning back pulling it out of the grass – it is like those cartoons the kids used to watch.

MORE TRULY USELESS INFORMATION-

More than 50% of the people in the world have never made or received a phone call.

The "sixth sheik's sixth sheep's sick" is the hardest tongue twister in English (I'm not surprised it was hard enough to type, let alone say).

A duck's quack does not echo (according to QI's Stephen Fry, this is not correct).

Dog Days –

If your dog doesn't like someone, you probably shouldn't either.

Wright on Broadway

Wright on Broadway is closing its doors this Sunday 15 October 2016.

We have been privileged to serve the clientele of Dunolly and surrounds and visitors to our town.

We thank you for your support over the years and say farewell to all who graced our tables. Thank you for your business and friendship.
Fiona Lindsay

Wright on Broadway

A big change is about to take place in the Paris end of Broadway. Wright on Broadway is changing hands and Fiona will be closing her doors this coming weekend to make way for new owners who are expected to open in December. It is ten years since Fiona began the business as an outlet for local wines. In the beginning cheese platters accompanied the wine tasting and then progressed into offering tasty meals and selling local provender.

The business started in the goldrush era of the 1800s as a hardware and liquor store and over the years graduated into a licensed grocer. As a result it holds the oldest existing liquor licence in Victoria.

As most of us know, Fiona has been involved in many committees in Dunolly and was instrumental in having the Bells Swamp road repaired to allow easy access to Melbourne and finally succeeded in gaining the much needed ATM at the Bendigo bank, among the many and varied activities she has embraced. Fiona now has family commitments which require her attention so will be glad of the extra time she will gain. Those of us who were regular customers will miss seeing Fiona who was ever the gracious hostess and especially the Saturday night formal dinners. However we are not losing a café and Fiona is not leaving town. We wish Fiona every good wish for the future.

To Dunolly Shopkeepers and Central Goldfield Shire,

As a cyclist and Dunolly local – well Eddington – it has become apparent that the number of cyclists of all types visiting the area is increasing. Yet there is no safe and secure parking for bicycles.

What a difference it is to go to Septembre Café in Eddington with their two cycle racks out the front (see photo).

The cost of installing a couple of racks in Broadway would not be high, with a significant benefit to the town. All cyclists need coffee and cake.

Anyone for Pizza?

Among the many attractions of the Dunolly monthly market is the Pizza stall named "We're Fired Up" and run by the very friendly couple, Ron and Maree. They moved from Bendigo to settle in Dunolly and every market day they bring their portable pizza oven to a spot near the Town Hall to dispense their tasty pizzas to the hungry customers. It is wood fired using only the best type of wood which produces low ash. You can choose from all the popular style pizzas which include Meat Lovers, Hawaiian, Aussie, Veg and many more. Only the best fresh ingredients are used, for example ham off the bone and no processed meat.

Ron and Maree will take their pizza oven to functions and they also visit festivals in the area. You can contact them on 0409 043 407.

Scams

Recently I received a phone call from a heavily accented person who said she was from Telstra and that due to hacking, my internet would be out of action for three months but she could help me fix it. I pointed out that a three month period was ludicrous and asked was she actually from Telstra. She said yes, from the technical division. So of course I told her that I didn't believe her and would ring Telstra myself. I didn't bother because I knew it had to be a scam; however I am curious to know if had I proceeded what would she have asked me to do. Obviously she would have asked for my email address and then what?

New arts program a big win for Western Victoria

The Member for Western Victoria, Jaala Pulford, is encouraging arts groups, societies, venues and local councils to apply for funding to attract the best performances in an effort to strengthen regional touring in more places across the state.

The Small Regional Presenters program will be available to support regional arts presenters – including not for profit arts groups and societies, venues and local councils – to present professional arts events and experiences in their communities. Ms Pulford said grants of up to $15,000 will be available to support the presentation of a single show or live event, a series of shows or an annual program.

"We are lucky in Western Victoria to have some great musical talent and this program will give us the opportunity to showcase the best stars in our part of Victoria," Ms Pulford said.

"Arts touring brings significant benefits to towns, to communities and to artists and Victoria has a strong history of regional tours by major companies as well as independent artists," she said.

Small Regional Presenters builds on existing programs that support Victorian arts companies and producers to embark on regional tours. It provides a focus on the other end of the touring cycle by supporting regionally-based arts groups and venues to attract shows to their area.

Small Regional Presenters is part of the Labor Government's $20 million Regional Arts Package, delivered in the 2015/16 Victorian Budget.

Funding will be offered through three grant rounds in 2016-17.

Applications to the first round of the Small Regional Presenters program close 5pm, Wednesday 16 November 2016, for shows taking place from 31 January 2017 onwards.

Community presenters seeking to apply must be members of Regional Arts Victoria.

For program details, visit www.creative.vic.gov.au

Mixed Nuts

What a great afternoon of music and fun we had at Buckley's of Dunolly last Sunday with Brigid de Neefe and her group The Mixed Nuts, consisting of pianist Jono Harvey and double bass player Gordon Gunn. The amazing Brigid was so versatile and bubbly and carried us, the lucky audience, along with her fun and exuberance. We were treated to jazz, blues and a bit of light opera interspersed with lots of banter and camaraderie within the group. We all came away with a smile on our faces. There's a chance they will be returning to Dunolly in the near future, so watch out for them.

Click Photo Exhibition

Wasn't the Dunolly Primary School's Click Photo Exhibition wonderful! The children all presented a beautiful photo they had taken themselves, and all the photos on display were much better than any of my happy snaps. The subjects were varied, but all reflected something of the school's values of respect, resilience and community. All the parents and grandparents who went to view the work sounded like they were justly proud of their offspring. The students and their teachers should also be proud of what they achieved. My favourite things were the short narratives below each photo making thoughtful and positive comments about the photo's subject. With such considerate young people in our community the rest of us can be confident that the future of the wider community is in safe hands.

New Road Rules?

I cannot remember ever learning the road rule which says that you can double park in the main street and actually leave your car unattended while you hop out to do something important. However it must be a rule because I saw a young woman do it on Sunday in Broadway while the market was on. I am sure that no one would do this if it was not legal. But I really cannot remember learning that when I was going for my licence. Perhaps it is a new rule or perhaps it is in the seldom read back section entitled "Now You Have Your Licence You Can Make Up Your Own Rules".

What is the Dunolly Streetband about?

In short: it's about having fun playing music with other people. It's often more enjoyable to play with others than only sitting at home; so this is an exciting opportunity to do just that.

There are several other Streetbands in Victoria that have formed in the last 18 months; part of a Community Music Victoria project to encourage participation in live music. The band could just enjoy playing together, or may enjoy strutting its stuff at the monthly market or other community events...even the New Year's Day parade in Maryborough!

Check out the Community Music Victoria website... cmvic.org.au ...'Streetsounds'... to see what others are doing, and come along to the Ministry of Fun on Saturday afternoon, 2.00-4.00pm, to be part of the start-up process. Bring along an instrument if you have one! We have a range of instruments from the days of the 'Wacky Placky' band. You don't have to be able to read music. All levels and ages welcome!

St John's News from Rev Andrew Eaton

At a recent meeting with St John's parishioners, Bishop Andrew Curnow of the Anglican Diocese of Bendigo was excited to hear of our decision to move weekly services to Thursday mornings at 10am from November. Contrary to divisive rumours in the community, the church is not closing. Instead, it is constantly reimagining ways in which it can worship God creatively and serve the Dunolly community. Bishop Curnow agreed to trial the new Thursday services for six months, encouraging us to enjoy worship and fellowship together, and share the love of God in Jesus Christ.

Our Thursday services begin in November, every week at 10am. Before then, we have a special All-Parish service for the Feast of All Saints, Sunday 30 October, 10.30am at St John's. All are welcome to experience the beauty of Anglican worship and great fellowship.

In the Vegie Patch

October is the most successful month for sowing seeds or planting out the summer growing plants. The days are longer, therefore more sunshine to warm up the soil. The main seed crops are carrots, parsnips, beetroot, silver beet, celery, leeks and radish, and also some late sowing of dwarf peas can be very successful and ready to harvest near Christmas time.

Leeks are a handy standby, if any gardener didn't get around to planting out onion plants.

Celery must be sown during the good sowing months, as it becomes very bitter when cooked if left in the soil too long, and slow growing if not in good fertilised soil. Lettuce also needs to grow rapidly to be fresh and not bitter when ready for eating.

A small sowing of dwarf beans can be sown this month. It is a risk to sow a large crop yet, as there can be very heavy frosts this month, so don't waste space sowing a large crop at this stage; the space is much better saved for later on when the risks of frost are much less.

Butter beans do like the summer months to grow and to produce a good crop.

Potatoes can go in the soil this month also; they take at least three weeks to emerge and if sown too deep they take even longer. Deeper sown tubers take less water as the soil is much cooler.

Now is the time to sow tomato seeds or planting out plants. Seeds sown where they are to remain in the seed bed can be covered by a plastic bottle with the bottom cut out. Place more than one seed in the same position, and when they start to grow, just leave one healthy plant to each bottle. Press the bottle firmly into the soil; it helps to keep slugs out from eating the young plants. It is also wise to treat the soil with boiling water before sowing, as there could be some small pest that gets locked in the cover.

For Fruit Trees

Stone fruit trees can now be sprayed with Copper fungicide; it helps to keep out diseases.

Apricots are more susceptible to many diseases than other stone fruit.

Lemon trees can be pruned this month, if need be. Older lemon trees are better pruned each year; they are inclined to develop sick looking limbs and dry tips. Fertilize all citrus trees now and every six weeks during spring to autumn. Use a citrus food or poultry manure. They also need a lot of iron. Put one tablespoon of iron sulphate in four and a half litres of water and apply once in spring, once in summer and once in autumn. Also seaweed emulsion is a good boost to keep soil nourished - three tablespoons to four and a half litres of water.

Wet conditions raise spraying concerns

Agriculture Victoria is reminding farmers of the importance of correctly using agricultural chemicals during wetter periods to ensure that the risks of unwanted outcomes are minimised.

Agriculture Victoria State-wide Specialist for Chemicals Steven Field said the recent wet conditions may result in farmers feeling significant pressure to use chemicals for a range of reasons.

"Farmers may be aware that fungicides could be in short supply in some areas and they may look to use a chemical on a crop that it is not registered for.

"That is why we are encouraging farmers to ensure they take into account their legal obligations and don't take short cuts", he said. "Inappropriate chemical use may result in a range of adverse outcomes such as unacceptable residues, increased resistance, or spray drift."

Mr Field said many farmers may be considering whether to apply a fungicide to their crop, if they haven't done so already.

Some important things farmers must be aware of are to:

- Only use Schedule 7 Dangerous Poisons in strict accordance with the label and not to use
- them unless they hold an Agricultural Chemical User Permit.
- Not use other agricultural chemicals (e.g. Schedule 5 or 6 chemicals) at a rate greater than the maximum label rate, more frequently than the label states, or in contravention of any prohibitive ('DO NOT') statements.
- Not spray any chemical in inappropriate conditions, such as in strong winds, inversion conditions, where there is a high risk of causing spray drift onto neighbouring crops pasture, or other sensitive areas such as houses and waterways.

Peak industry bodies like the Grains Research and Development Corporation, Pulse Australia and others have published guidance material for farmers which compliments farmer's responsibilities to ensure they read and understand the individual product label prior to use.

For more information on agricultural chemical use in Victoria please contact the Agriculture Victoria

Customer Service Centre on 136 186 or visit the website at:

STUDENTS OF THE WEEK

Prep/1 – Cedric Carless

Year 1/2 – Isaac Scott

Year 3/4 – Tyson Hoban

Year 5/6 – Hope Johnston

Principal's Award – Bryce Thompson

Artist of the Week – Hunter Scholes

Auslan Award – Hunter Scholes

Around school this week :

Excitement for two major events – Dunolly's Got Talent was this Friday. All family members were welcome to come along to see the acts.

This weekend the students' hard work was on display at the CLICK! Exhibition in the Dunolly Town Hall. I am amazed at the photos the students have produced which demonstrates our school values in action.

The term started off a bit wet with the risk of flooding causing disruption to the school bus run but hopefully the weather will continue to improve and the flood risk will subside.

I would like to remind all parents and students that we are a Sunsmart School and as such our students need to wear a wide brimmed hat during fourth term. Please ensure that your child brings their hat to school.

In the art room this week:

Junior students are learning the Japanese art of origami and this week created a beautiful garden of tulips. 🌷🌷. Senior students are learning about radial symmetry and have started their origami hat folds, kite folds and samurai folds which they will arrange to create an amazing 3D paper radial relief sculpture. I can't wait to see their finished products.

I was super impressed with the growth mindset of students, as origami is not a skill that everyone finds easy. Many students kept trying and persisting even when they found it difficult, which made me a very proud art teacher! Fantastic start to the term everyone!

Bealiba Progress Association

October meeting

Our Monday night meeting was well attended. Due to the many activities across the shire, Cr. Bob Henderson was unable to be with us. Much of the discussion at our October meeting centred on complaints and reports of water damage, drainage, grass growth and safety in public places.

We have, over the past few years, worked at developing a good relationship with the shire regarding reporting works and concerns and community requests. One of the best ways you can report an issue is with your smart phone. Use the free app. "Snap Send Solve". This app is universally used by many shires and government bodies and will allow you to send a photograph and short report to the relevant department. This means the complaint is documented and lodged and will be responded to quickly. In addition we have our local councillor attend meetings to help us understand the process of council, budgeting and scheduling of works. This means that the progress association can spend its time looking at solutions and cooperative community approaches to work together to keep our town tidy and safe.

One of our annual activities is a big clean up at the cemetery. For this we work with the cemetery trust's permission to mow, weed and generally clean up the cemetery prior to holidays and other important times. Our next working bee is scheduled for Sunday 6 November at 9am. Please bring gloves, rakes, mowers and whipper-snippers... your chair, hats and cold drinks. We plan a sausage sizzle for the workers at 12noon, so if you plan to attend please let Heather know on 0427 732 093.

The other important matter that was discussed was the ability and legality of small, not for profit organisations like the BPA to fundraise. Fundraising is part of the Progress Association Charter, but these days there are many regulations to address and work within. The good news is, as a group of volunteers with a fundraising turnover of less than $10,000, we are not required to register as a fundraising body with consumer affairs. However this means we cannot raise money directly for other groups who do have fundraising turnover of more than $10,000. But we can donate to them. However, to run a raffle, permits may be needed with the gaming commission. Again the good news is that permits are not required if we run small raffles under $500 value. We can sell tickets on the day of drawing to the general public, and presale tickets to our members past and present and their families. Hopefully this clears up some confusion as fundraising is important to small communities, not just to meet running costs of projects, but to contribute to larger projects that require fund matching to meet grant requirements.

Out next meeting is Monday 14 November at 7.30pm in the Bealiba Hall .

Cemetery working Bee at 9am Sunday 6 November

CNAV Conference Report

I was privileged to attend the CNAV Conference this past weekend. The conference brings together representatives of community newspapers across Victoria to network, swap ideas, attend workshops and be inspired by keynote speakers, all for the betterment of our community newspapers.

Many members of CNAV (Community Newspapers Association of Victoria) are ex professional journalists, editors, photographers and general workers in the media.

In such illustrious company I felt a little intimidated as I have not had any experience in media and my only knowledge of newspaper production is what I've learnt on the job while editing The Welcome Record. However, after many complimentary remarks and amazement that we published the paper weekly, whereas most of the others were fortnightly, monthly or even quarterly, I was mollified and rather proud of our achievements. The 30 or so examples I brought to show all disappeared, so obviously people were interested in looking at our paper.

I would like to thank all the team who put so much time and effort to produce our paper. Without the combined efforts of our volunteers and without contribution from the community, we couldn't provide the information, stories, recipes, poetry etc. that we enjoy reading. Thank you all.

KOKORO KAI

News from the Dojo

It has been a very busy time since our last report! The days, weeks, months are just FLYING!

The karate tournament held in Maryborough on Saturday 27 August was a HUGE success! There were approximately 130 competitors from various parts of Victoria, and even as far as NSW, who came to compete in the tournament. Our club is to be commended, as it was a very proud moment when judges and referees, who deal with Karate tournaments on a national and international level commented on how well organised and how smooth our tournament ran! In particular they mentioned the friendliness of everyone, and terrific display of sportsmanship! We were the first ever Karate tournament to do the 22 push up challenge, which is in honour of suicide awareness for the Vets returning home from war who suffer PTSD! If you can, jump on to Facebook, and check out the video; it is pretty impressive seeing over 130 karate students doing the 22 push up challenge all at once!

Unfortunately, we were still on a high from the success of the tournament, when firstly, part of the Maryborough dojo was flooded, then broken into and robbed, then flooded again! The person/s responsible for the break-in stole money, some of which was going to help fund the bus to get students to karate camp, and even more concerning, they managed to steal the ceremonial sword that was hanging on the wall. As you can imagine, we are all very upset by this, especially Shihan Peter, as his personal belongings, such as an old sentimental desk were broken into, for these thieves to gain access to money. They were even low enough to fill their pockets with our fundraising chocolates! Police were notified, and attended the dojo and are working with Shihan Peter regarding the matter. We feel it is important for all of our members, and the community to know about this. If you know, or hear anything that could help find the person/s responsible please notify the police. Especially if you know someone who has recently got a new sword, or sold one!

After this incident, we were overwhelmed by the support we got. Club members, and even community members, chipped in and helped us raise the bus money – for a second time!

It just shows, “You must not lose faith in humanity! Humanity is an ocean, if a few drops of the ocean are dirty, the entire ocean does not become dirty”

(quote by Mahatma Gandhi).

It was a great feeling seeing everyone board the bus, and head off to Karate camp this year. We will be forever grateful for those who helped make it happen!

Once again, Karate camp was booked out, and very successful! All up over 80 people attended the camp in Tallangatta! Everyone returned home looking very tired, but so far the feedback has been very positive with people saying they thoroughly enjoyed Karate camp, and people are already starting to put their name down for 2017 camp! We worked out that over the weekend most people trained for about 12-14 hours! Camp is a lot of fun, but it is also hard, physical training, so EVERYONE deserves a big pat on the back!

Invitations to grade have been handed out for the grading which will take place at the Maryborough Dojo on Sunday 30 October. Good luck to those who are grading. The little ninjas and also the ladies' self defence group will be grading sometime in November; date to be confirmed.

Good luck to our members who are heading to Warrnambool this weekend to compete in Round 2 of the Victorian Regional Karate Championship – win or lose - we know each of you will do our club proud! Just remember, a loss is not really a loss, it is a lesson... We are all learning each and every day on how to get better, whether it is on a personal level, work, school, karate – we never stop learning, we always keep getting better. So just get out there, have fun, and do your best.

THE POLITICIAN & THE WITCH

There was a rap on the door. Witch Nerida had been expecting it. The local Member of Parliament, Walter Renege, would be waiting on her doorstep. She didn't need to be psychic, in that respect. The city state volunteers were on strike again. All manner of things came to a halt or went awry when that happened.

Governments would never learn, in her opinion. Instead of gratefully and gracefully accepting the many hours of donated labour, successive governments ignored what that amounted to in dollar terms - that is to say, money not extracted from the public purse. Worse still, reputations of volunteers and carers were impugned and their self-esteem dented. No wonder then that tools were downed and towels chucked in.

"Come in!" she cackled lustily, mostly for effect. "Mind you don't trip over the broom, Dearie."

Walter Renege confidently strode across the threshold and into the room. She liked to think of him as a professional word tamer. Like most, if not all politicians, he possessed the gift of the gab. She mentally prepared herself by remembering past conversations in this very eyrie.

"Please Witch Nerida, the rats are as big as warthogs and are knocking all the rubbish bins over!" Or, "Please Witch Nerida, the river is flowing upside down."

"It does have that reputation doesn't it? A river disparaged on account of its incredibly murky appearance."

"Yes, but at this time it is literally topsy turvy. The water is supposed to be on the surface, not covered by dirt."

"You mean the riverbed?"

"Yes, that's it."

Returning to the present, Nerida asked, "Okay Mr. Renege how can I be of service to the city?"

Walter wrung his hands and conjured up a beseeching look. "We are, it seems, experiencing a minor hiccup in our day to day affairs."

"You mean strike," Nerida said firmly.

"Quite."

"Well, how about this? Tell your government to treat all the volunteers with honour and respect."

Walter rolled his eyes toward the ceiling. "Ma'am, as you already know, I am but a humble backbencher. I do not presume to dictate civil policy to my superiors in Cabinet."

"But you're here to do their dirty work nevertheless? Looking for a quick fix?"

"Madam, I remind you that I am the elected representative for this constituency and some tasks transpire to be more onerous than others." "And your government can't repair an impasse of its own making?"

"Ah ... it is felt that your expertise is required in this matter, for the benefit of all."

"Humph," Nerida said unconvinced. "You'd better lay out the problem for me then."

Businesslike, Walter continued, "Clowns are the issue here."

"Clowns you say?" Nerida asked. Her bulbous nose warts shimmied with amusement.

"Yes, as you may or may not know, clowns are highly territorial. Normally, of course, they are confined to the Big Top. But if one should wander into another's area woe betide the transgressor."

"Doesn't sound that serious to me."

Walter shot a sidelong glance at her. "Tell me, have you ever seen a unicycle death match with juggling clubs the weapon of choice?"

"Er ... no."

"Nor do you want to," he said with a little shudder. "Anyway we have a division called the Clown Police responsible for keeping them apart."

"Don't tell me, let me guess - they are all volunteers."

"Correct."

"And now there is blood on the streets."

"Also correct," Walter nodded.

"And you want me to spell this problem away?"

"Please, in the interests of city safety."

"Very well," Nerida said, thinking furiously. "But be careful what you wish for!"

She raised her arms and commenced her invocation in a thunderous voice:

*"Troubled not by hours of toil
Happy to be the recipient of unpaid good
Attitudes to volunteers makes my blood boil
I entreat government to realise its falsehood!"*

"What have you done?" an alarmed Walter shouted, once the smoke and lightning had cleared.

"Let's just say that the government may have to find a little extra coin to pay those who really make the wheels of civilization turn."

Nerida repeatedly jabbed him in the chest with a long and crooked finger. "And, Dearie, you don't qualify!"

Players will have several activities on their calendars until this competitive season ends 24 November. These include visits from the Avoca and St Arnaud Clubs, the AGM on 27 October and a few more sessions looking towards our own club championship.

This week's competition saw many two game winners but no team managed to win three games. Eunice Milley, Gordon Smith, David Price and Heather Cooper won two games, as did Bill and Yvonne Best with Keith Brightwell. Added to these were "Tige" Coburn, Betty Lovel and Joe Battisson, who has returned from his trip and is climbing up the championship ladder, all of those players had two wins.

DUNOLLY SOCIAL CYCLISTS

Spring is in the air and the rain has dried up at last!
Well almost!

Our first Spring ride will take place on Sunday 16 October and will start and finish at Neville and Heather Robert's place in McCoy St, Eddington. Start time will be 9.30am. We will be doing a circuit that involves some bitumen but mostly gravel roads. Our reward will be a coffee at Septembre café, Eddington for everyone who finishes.

This will be a fairly easy ride for all of us who are out of practice after our winter recess.

New riders will be made very welcome! For directions and details ring Neville on 5468 7295
