Footy Fun Day at Dunolly Preschool

Dunolly Preschool was a sea of AFL, local footy and netball tops, scarves and beanies, for our much anticipated 'footy fun' day on Thursday 13 October. The event was postponed from the end of last term due to flooding.

The Grade 6 students from Dunolly Primary School and principal and teacher, Mrs Lovel, organised an extremely successful footy clinic for the preschool children.

Large and small group games and skills focused on practising ball handling skills, teamwork, listening and following instructions and having fun!

The Grade 6 children took it in turns to explain the various activities to the preschool children, demonstrate and assist as necessary, provide the younger children with support and encouragement while practising their own teamwork, and taught them organisational and leadership skills. They did a fantastic job! This was such a positive experience for both the age groups that we would love for another 'footy fun day' to happen again next year!

Rosie's Ramble

I saw the swan parents again today, they still have all four of their babies.

Made some toast for tea tonight. It came out a bit pale, so I put it down again – and of course got distracted. The toast was ruined, smoke filled the kitchen and then the smoke alarm went off. Ouch!! Opened the back door to let the smoke out, but it went up the passage and set off a second alarm, Double Ouch!! I cannot understand how anyone can sleep through that racket, and they take so long to turn themselves off.

I have found the elusive dish mops at Treasure Hunters today – and I bought two.

Why is it so hard to give up an old dressing gown? I recently bought a new one. It is pretty, warm and looks better than the old one – but I am finding it hard to let go of the old one. Is it because it has been a comforting presence for so long, sitting up with me at night when I can't sleep, always there in the morning to warm me against the frost, and a touch of home when I have been in hospital? All of the above. I will just have to steel myself and put it in the bin and forget about it. Wish me luck!

How annoying is this –

You rub on hand cream and cannot turn the bathroom doorknob to get out.

The power goes off, and you discover every torch in the house has a flat battery.

You buy an answering machine so you won't miss calls, then someone hangs up when they hear the machine answer.

English is hard to learn? Try this-

The bandage was wound around the wound.

I did not object to the object.

Dog Days-

Dig under the fence – Why? Because it's there.

DUNOLLY COMMUNITY EVENTS CALENDAR 2016-2017

This simple calendar of community events for 2016-2017 has been compiled to help groups plan their activities for the rest of the year. Getting an idea of what is on each month can help to avoid duplication and crowding of events.

Regular activities and meetings are already listed comprehensively in The Welcome Record and on the Dunolly website, while the Calendar is an attempt to publish once-off and special events.

The Calendar is only as good as the information that is provided. Please let us know when you are scheduling your special events. Please email your plans to Marion Da Costa, DDI Secretary at mdac@iinet.net.au.

We hope the Calendar will be useful for all community groups.

Well done Bealiba

I particularly enjoyed seeing the Dunolly Primary School's Click! project photos. Well done to all the photographers and congratulations Anna and Philip for a great initiative.

Thank you to the members of the CWA, who provided Devonshire tea. It was delicious.

Bealiba Thru the Lens

It was a very impressive function for a small town of few people - but dedicated to the challenge of presenting a grand function that undoubtedly would lift the locals.

On display was a very large array of children's photographs of exceptional quality, plus a large display of pictures from all ages.

Also on display was an interesting showing of Bealiba History plus district booklets based on the gold mining past and present.

An art display from Alvah Art Gallery was the 1929 Oakland 6 Sedan (owner John Moir) and the Classic Holden with Vintage Caravan from Graham of the Broadway Vintage Caravan Museum.

There were over 80 adults in attendance over the day and a good number of children. There was also the opportunity to inspect the Historic Railway Station.

I did learn during day that a non-resident of Bealiba is planning a special development of a project that will feature more of the history of rail in Bealiba.

Cheers John Moir

Bealiba Thru the Lens 2016

Sunday saw another successful day for the Bealiba Thru the Lens photographic competition; a culmination of much work and organisation for the Bealiba Historical Society, since early 2016.

While our numbers were a little down from last year with so many other events across the shire and the weather not being great for the last month, discouraging folk from travelling, Bealiba still managed to put on a warm, welcoming day, proving our little event truly holds its own.

If we are to measure the success of this community event, this year truly was remarkable. Well over 180 people contributed. Many committee members, friends, students from Dunolly and Bealiba Primary Schools and their staff, local artists and businesses who participated and donated time, goods and money, and of course the entrants to the competition, all make our event what it is. There are simply too many people to thank individually, but you know who you are. Plus this year we had many new faces; local families and friends from other towns participated.

The late Adrian Cook was a keen photographer, filmmaker and community member and has been our inspiration for this event. This year we saw the whole of Dunolly Primary School's CLICK! photographic exhibition. We believe Adrian would be very pleased. He always envisioned youth and community involvement. We look forward to next year to further this tradition of youth participation. This youth work project showed us all how technology can be used to explore themes and values and how presentation and display can further enhance the photographic experience. This year's standard was high, and the winners embraced the theme and worked creatively with some really exciting images.

Our winners this year were:

Viewer's choice - John Clutterbuck
 Open - Jenny Scott
 8 – 15 yrs - Rory Schools
 0 – 8 yrs - Morgan Lea- Brightwell

There were many highly commended photos. The number of nominations in the viewer's choice reflected both the standard and the diverse responses to the theme of "Railways and Transport"

This year we raised nearly $300 on behalf of the BPA for our wood raffle, won by Joyce Vater.

All the money raised is going to the Bealiba Pony Club towards the installation of a disabled ramp.

An additional $130 was raised from our gift raffles made up from a great selection of donated goods. Along with our gold coin door entry, this money covers our printing and advertising.

We thank the BPA for their donation of prize money for the viewer's choice award and John Richards for his generous donation of the President's prize for the open sections. Other prize monies are dispersed from the money taken for entry fees.

We are already looking forward to 2017, working with our local schools, community and local business. We plan more workshops for those who are interested and if the seasons are kind to us and the weather on the day is good, we may open some of the splendid gardens locally and encourage more visitors to wander and explore our lovely town.

Again big thanks to all who came and supported us.

A Joke for all the Hunters out there:

Two hunters got lost in the forest. In line with rescue instructions, they fired three times in the air. But no rescue party turned up, so they fired another three times in the air. Still no rescue party turned up. So they tried for the third time – no response. Finally one hunter said: "What are we going to do now?"

Things to Do:

Scrabble or Walking on Mondays, Woodworking or Art Group on Tuesdays, Craft on Wednesdays, Archery with Mike, and Oil Painting lessons with Mal Gilmour once monthly. Also Singing and Dancing to join as well.

Our wonderful Welcome Record

Some people lamented recently that they missed out on events in Dunolly and district. "There should be more publicity," says they. "The Welcome Record lists everything," says I. "Oh, we don't read papers," says they! "Gulp," says I.

All jokes aside, I love reading The Welcome Record and look forward to seeing it on line if I am in Melbourne. Well done to all the volunteers. You provide a terrific service for the whole community.

Rachel Buckley

Thank you Rachel

It is so very much appreciated that you took the time to defend us and thank us for the work we do.

We are all volunteers and give our time freely for the benefit of the community and it is really lovely to have someone say thank you. Usually we only get communication if we make a mistake. We are human!

So thank you for your thank you.

Dunolly Street Band

It was with more than a little trepidation that I went along to the Dunolly Street Band gathering on Saturday at the Ministry Of Fun. Being new to playing an instrument, I initially felt like a bit of a fraud amongst the experienced and talented musicians present. However my fears were very quickly forgotten with the enthusiastic and inclusive attitude of our leaders, Lyndal and Strat, and the very 'doable' music they had us playing. We were very quickly making some great sounds and putting together three or four entertaining and fun tunes. For the more experienced musicians there was plenty of scope for improvisation and to show off their abilities.

At Anna's suggestion we headed outside to try out our tunes on what we thought would be an empty street, only to find a large group of bikies pulled up opposite. They seemed to appreciate our efforts and applauded enthusiastically.

The future direction of the Dunolly Street Band is yet to be determined, but all those present on Saturday are very keen to see it up and running. From my point of view it was a great feeling to be making music with some experienced and talented musicians, not to mention great fun. Anyone who would like to be part of this exciting new community project, and has always wanted to make music but never plucked up the courage, this is your big chance! Stay tuned for future developments.

Faye Arnold

Dunolly's New Street Band

Seven ukuleles, flute, mandolin, trombone, accordion, trumpet and later a bass uke. We all got together last Saturday at the Ministry of Fun in Broadway to give birth to our Dunolly Street Band. (still working on our name).

Country Music Victoria is hoping to organise twelve street bands in Victoria and we are probably number 12. Wonderful leadership from Lyndal (trombone) and Strat (uke) meant that we had a great time playing four tunes. We even decided to try our sound out in the street (well we are supposed to be a street band) but we were quite surprised to find a line up of motorbike people outside Fiona's Wright on Broadway. So we had an audience! Check the video that Judy Meldrum put up on Face Book.

The scourge of family violence

80,000 calls to Police last year to attend family violence incidents - one call every eight minutes. As shocking as this number is, it is estimated that still only one in six incidents is reported.

Superintendent Matthew Ryan supplied the above figures when he gave the keynote speech at the CNAV (Community Newspaper Association of Victoria) Conference on 8 October 2016. He is the sole superintendent in the Victoria Police Family Violence Command, a position he took up when the Command was formed in March 2015.

Since that time there has been a 40 percent increase in reports of family violence and assaults. Superintendent Ryan says this is a good result, and demonstrates that what they are doing is working. He wants to see the percentage go up again this year. It is hoped that the budget for not-for-profit organisations will be increased, which will mean that the recommendations of the Royal Commission into Family Violence can be implemented.

Superintendent Ryan also leads a taskforce targeting the highest risk recidivist family violence perpetrators in Victoria. The taskforce consists of 11 divisions in the Melbourne metropolitan area and 10 in rural Victoria. These divisions, and the taskforce, encourage major groups such as child protection, sexual assault units, and Police to work together and to share information. This cooperation between organisations has resulted in major breakthroughs in several cases. One particular case he mentioned involved a person who had assaulted many woman over a period of years; six of them had been so seriously injured they had been hospitalised.

There are 37 different support groups in Victoria dealing with these crimes. Getting them to share information has been difficult, but it is now paying off with several people being charged.

Superintendent Ryan stated that during Police basic training, more time is spent learning about traffic offences and the law than time spent on how to deal with family violence. This is surprising considering that 48 percent of Police time is spent on dealing with domestic incidents. Police are now undergoing extra training on how to cope with these cases, and teaching participants respect for women is considered a high priority assisting members gain an understanding of this problem.

Superintendent Ryan ended his speech with an appeal to everyone to encourage victims to report domestic and family violence. He particularly emphasised how important it is "to look after your mates" - much the same as friends look after one another when enjoying a night out by not letting them drive if they have drunk too much. He advocates taking particular notice that if a friend of yours is in a new relationship, is receiving 100 plus text messages a day from the new person in their life, and is being isolated from friends and family: be aware that these are controlling behaviours and can lead to your friend being dominated, isolated and possibly becoming yet another victim.

Maryborough students to learn respectful relationships

Maryborough Education Centre students will learn about respectful relationships as part of a new mandatory primary and secondary school subject to help end the vicious cycle of family violence.

The Member for Western Victoria, Jaala Pulford, said the Andrews Labor Government is investing $21.8 million to roll out the initiative, delivering on a recommendation from the Royal Commission on Family Violence.

Ms Pulford said the Respectful Relationships curriculum includes age-appropriate resources, including lesson plans and activities that help students learn and practise social skills and apply them in a positive way to learning, life and relationships.

The resources have been developed by world-leading experts from the Melbourne Graduate School of Education, led by Associate Professor Helen Cahill, who worked with UNESCO on similar resources used in the Asia-Pacific.

"From next year, Maryborough students will learn about respectful relationships in primary and secondary school as part of the Victorian curriculum," Ms Pulford said.

"The evidence shows that education is key to ending the vicious cycle of family violence and this new subject is about teaching our kids to treat everyone with respect and dignity so we can start the cultural change we need in our society to end the scourge of family violence," she said.

The new curriculum has been developed following a trial of a whole-of-school approach to respectful relationships that was run in 19 Victorian schools, including Maryborough Education Centre, by the Department of Education and Training and the anti-family violence organisation Our Watch.

Our Watch's report evaluating the trial found embedding Respectful Relationships education in a school's culture leads to clear improvements in student and staff knowledge, attitude and confidence in discussing issues of violence, equality and respectful relationships.

The new Respectful Relationships curriculum starts in term one, 2017.

Funding for Central Goldfields students most in need

Central Goldfields Shire students most in need are getting extra support at school to achieve their best and break the cycle of disadvantage, thanks to the Andrews Labor Government's record boost to equity funding.

The Member for Western Victoria, Jaala Pulford, said schools have now received their indicative budgets for next year, with the Labor Government delivering $6.1 billion to Victorian government schools for 2017.

Ms Pulford said the budget includes $358 million in equity funding, which is needs-based funding used by schools to introduce programs that help disadvantaged students achieve better results at school and reach their full potential.

Local school budgets for 2016/17 include:

- Maryborough Education Centre $12,155,838 plus $2,022,835 equity funding.
- Talbot Primary $1,004,626 plus $128,309 equity funding.
- Carisbrook Primary $2,863,068 plus $358,547 equity funding.
- Dunolly Primary School $1,048,649 plus $143,891 equity funding.
- Bealiba Primary $317,552 plus $26,976 equity funding.
- Timor Primary School $686,208 plus $114,104 equity funding.
- Avoca Primary $1,040,193 plus $82,502 equity funding.
- Clunes Primary $1,520,255 plus $154,510 equity funding.

Ms Pulford said equity funding to schools is ensuring Victoria meets its Gonski funding contribution for 2017.

"This funding is making a difference to the lives of Victorian students and is here to stay," Ms Pulford said.

"While the Turnbull Government has walked away from funding the final two years of Gonski funding by slashing almost $1 billion in funding to vulnerable students, our Government will continue to provide equity funding to help our schools and students most in need," she said.

"We know that needs-based funding works and is making a difference for Central Goldfields Shire students," Ms Pulford said.

For the first time, every Victorian government schools' total indicative funding is published on the Department of Education and Training's website:

Dunolly's St John's Church G & S concert 1881

In 1881, the music of Gilbert & Sullivan was heard at our own St John's Church. Isn't it interesting that G & S was a feature of Dunolly back then?

When was the last time you were inside St John's Church? It is one of the most beautiful historic buildings in town with the fabulous Fincham organ, and so much wonderful history. So many local families have enjoyed weddings and baptisms there. It is exciting that the Bach Choir from Melbourne will come in November and then the prestigious Organs of the Goldfields in January. We would love to welcome more people to the services. It is a delightful place for quiet reflection. If you have ever contemplated coming along to be part of the congregation or just to say hello, we would love to see you and make you so welcome.

Support for community playgroups

Parents and carers across Western Victoria are getting a helping hand in establishing and operating community playgroups.

The Member for Western Victoria, Jaala Pulford, said the Great Start Community Playgroup Fund will help new playgroups cover set-up fees and also stock up on toys, play equipment, books and other resources that can be used by families.

"The $50,000 fund supports the establishment of community playgroups across the state, particularly in rural and regional areas and in places where there are no existing playgroups," Ms Pulford said.

Successful grant recipients will receive resources and mentoring support for their newly established community playgroup, valued at up to $1,000.

Ms Pulford said more than 40,000 children and 30,000 families participate in playgroups in Victoria each year.

"Playgroups help new parents in Western Victoria to connect with one another, enabling them to learn from and support each other as their children grow," Ms Pulford said.

"They also play a vital role in strengthening families and communities, and instilling Victorian children with a lifelong love of learning," she said.

Dunolly-Bealiba Sub Branch

All set for 2016 Poppy Appeal

RSL Appeals organisers at all Victorian Sub-Branches around Victoria are gearing up for the annual Poppy Appeal, as it becomes a timely reminder to Remember this November.

Dunolly-Bealiba Sub-Branch is all set for this year's Poppy Appeal, with a group of volunteers committed to making the Appeal a great success.

From late October, thousands of the much loved, iconic red poppies will be sold to raise funds for current and former servicemen and women in need.

"The Poppy Appeal is a cause that resonates with all Australians and each and every person who purchases a poppy feels a great sense of pride in wearing it in the lead up to and on Remembrance Day," said RSL Victoria Appeals Manager, Peter Smith.

"Not only does buying and wearing a poppy show respect for our country's fallen heroes, but it helps raise vital funds to assist past and present servicemen and women and their dependents in times of need.

Poppies were among the first plants to bloom in the devastated battlefields of France and Belgium, and since 1921 they have been used in remembrance of those who fell during times of war.

As a wave of young veterans are finding themselves and their families in need of assistance, it is now as important as ever to donate to the Poppy Appeal, according to Mr Smith.

"We urge all Victorians to wear a poppy with pride as we remember this November." Peter said.

Richard Gale, President, Dunolly-Bealiba Sub-Branch acknowledges the phenomenal commitment shown by the members and volunteers who time and time again make the Poppy Appeal such a success.

"Our community continues to come together to support the Poppy Appeal in the lead up to Remembrance Day. It is humbling to see the wave of support and enthusiasm by the locals who support the Poppy Appeal in so many ways." he said.

You can purchase a poppy from your local Woolworths, Officeworks, RSL Sub-Branch or from volunteer collectors in your local community from late October, or donate online at www.poppyappeal.com.au.

Bringing tales of our veterans to life

The Andrews Government is partnering with Museums Australia to give ex-service organisations new opportunities to preserve Australia's wartime legacy.

The Member for Western Victoria, Jaala Pulford, today announced a new War Heritage Oral History Training Program, which is the latest initiative aimed at helping communities tell the tale of our veterans.

"Western Victoria's veterans gave us a great gift, and we want to ensure future generations never forget their sacrifice," Ms Pulford said.

The comprehensive training will include:

- Research and interview techniques.
- The ethics of recording oral histories, including copyright law.
- How to secure interviews.
- How to use professional recording equipment.

"This is a key initiative of the Labor Government's $1 million Veterans Heritage and History Strategy and it's our way of ensuring local organisations can preserve this treasured history for future generations," Ms Pulford said.

"We've got a really proud wartime legacy in Western Victoria that means so much to so many locals. This is a new opportunity to bring these remarkable stories to life," she said.

"There are treasured tales waiting to be told all over Victoria. We're helping local communities relive the remarkable contributions our veterans made," Ms Pulford said.

Ex-service organisations can apply to be part of the Program before 7 November.

5/6 Experience Day at MEC

Students in Years 5/6 had a positive experience at MEC on Wednesday. This time around they experienced Physical Education, English & the technology subject Textiles. The students made finger puppets using felt and had to use a running stitch and a surgical knot as part of their success criteria. It was a good indication of what is expected of the Year 6 students next year as part of their technology requirements.

It was pleasing to see most of the students taking risks and playing beyond the Alma (Year 7) neighbourhood. They enjoyed the basketball facilities and the synthetic oval. I know the Year 6 students are now feeling more confident about Orientation Day in December and beyond into 2017.

Moira and Martin's

Moira and Martin Saul built their house in 1972 when they were married. It was built on the site of a much older house which belonged to Martin's great, great uncle Martin who selected the farm in the mid-1800s. Behind the house is an attractive stone building which was intended to be a laundry when work was first started in 1945 by Martin's father Norman. But somehow it was left open to the elements until 1972 when Martin completed the masonry and put the roof on. A shed was relocated from Bet Bet to the Saul farm in the 1930s. The sheets of tin are still numbered to make sure they were replaced in their original spot. Nearby is a 1932 Morris Commercial truck undergoing restoration. For many years it was the Saul family vehicle taking the sheep to market and the family to church on Sundays. Because it had no doors and no padding on the wooden bench seat, a dusty and spine jarring trip was assured every time it left the farm. Young Martin learned to drive in it, probably after it was replaced by a brand new Plymouth bought from Halls of Dunolly.

An old beekeepers trolley, originally belonging to Martin's grandfather, is looking in good condition. It almost ended up in a bonfire until Martin reconsidered its future. This grandfather also made bicycles back in the 1920s when they were often custom-made to suit a rider's size and needs. He operated out of Rolf and Olvers garage on the corner of Napier and Nolan streets in Maryborough, where Wattle Office Supplies is currently situated. Obviously a man who liked to be busy, grandfather also hand forged wire strainers out of horse shoes and railway spikes and other materials which were close to hand at the blacksmiths forge which was then on the Saul farm.

It was the original selector, Martin Saul, who built the butcher shop back in about 1870 and it operated until about 1930. The original zinc meat safe is still in Martin's possession and is covered in now faint hand pencilled figures and calculations. A meat cleaver hangs on a hand forged hook nearby. The butcher's shop has been restored and reinforced in recent years; a labour of love which filled many leisure hours for Martin over about two years. The old pine flooring was warped and bent and in danger of ending up in the cellar beneath until Martin soaked them in a dam for a week. He was then able to refix them to the reinforced beams where they are now flat, straight and safe to walk on. The wall frames are mortised and held in place by the weight of the shingled roof, which is now protected by corrugated iron. Along one wall an ancient meat preparation table still stands, while a great red gum block is outside the front door. A steel rod was put through the centre of the block which was harnessed to the back of a dray and it was rolled to its current site where it has stood for many years.

It was a very interesting afternoon looking at the history of one family farm in this district. However the best part was that a family member was able to interpret this history for us. Very few Australian families can trace their history back over four generations continuously on one site. Thank you Martin for being generous enough to share this experience with the rest of us.

400 year - Dutch Australia History Celebrated

2016 - Year of Dirk Hartog

In the beginning, Aborigines populated Australia. It wasn't until 1606, when Dutch explorer Captain Willem Janszoon, in his vessel "Duyfken" (Little Dove), was the first European ship to reach the Australian coast. During his voyage, Janszoon explored and mapped the Gulf of Carpentaria in northern Queensland.

On 25 October 1616, the second Dutch Captain, Dirk Hartog, aboard the Dutch VOC ship "the Eendracht" landed at Cape Inscription (now Dirk Hartog Island) in the Shark Bay area of Western Australia.

To mark the 400th Anniversary of the Dirk Hartog landing, there will be a five day Festival in Denham - WA from 21 - 25 October 2016.

There will be a Race and Cruise from Fremantle to Geraldton and from Geraldton to Shark Bay starting on 15 October 2016. The fleet will be joined by the replica ships of "the Duyfken" and the "Leeuwin II" for the Plate re-enactment.

The Embassy of the Kingdom of the Netherlands in Canberra and the Consulate General in Sydney announced their support for four new "Dick Hartog 2016" projects.

Bendigo Show Exhibition

Patrons at this year's Bendigo Agricultural Show will have the chance to win a hamper of home-grown gourmet produce, thanks to a move by Loddon Shire Council to take a site at the event for the first time.

The stand will be shared over the two days by Glencoe Farms, of Appin South, and volunteers promoting the visitor attractions of the Loddon Valley.

The Show, planned for 21-22 October at the Showgrounds, will offer its usual dizzying mix of rides, horse events, exhibits, children's entertainment, cookery and craft, show-bags and fireworks.

Glencoe Farms is owned and operated by the Henry family, growing seasonal tomatoes for the production of pasta sauces.

"Our pasta sauce range uses our own fruit and, as far as I know, it's the only pasta sauce in Australia produced by the family who actually grow the tomatoes," Mr Henry said.

"We started about 18 months ago and now sell through farmers' markets and 25 independent retailers.

"We also sell pasta varieties and a range of tomato-based vegan jerky.

"We won a gold medal this year in the savoury preserves section at the Australian Food Awards with one of our sauces and exhibited in the Winning Tastes Pavilion at last month's Royal Melbourne Show."

Loddon Shire tourism and marketing officer Robyn Vella said visitors would be able to chat with the volunteers about places to visit in the Loddon Valley.

"There'll be information available about the tourist experiences we offer and everyone visiting the stand will have the chance to win a hamper of regional produce," she said.

"There's still time for people to donate their time if they would like to lend a hand."

DUNOLLY SOCIAL CYCLISTS

Last Sunday we were lucky enough to get a weather break enabling a group of us to have a pleasant 12km cycle in the Eddington area on quiet roads (no traffic). We had to cycle through water on three of the bridges over the Loddon river. This enabled Philip Ashton to play "little boys" with a stick looking for holes in the bridge deck, without success. A stop for coffee at the Eddington café was a suitable end to a pleasant ride.

The next ride is on Sunday 23 October, yes next Sunday! due to the following Sunday having too much on. Start is at 9.30am outside Philip and Anna's home for a cycle around Sydenham Hill, finishing with a coffee at Dunolly. See you there.

Footy Fun at Preschool

It's wonderful to see children outdoors having fun and learning coordination skills rather than indoors with iPads and game boys. While technology has its place in today's world, it is so important for kids to have outdoor activities. Congratulations to the teachers and coordinators of this event for giving the children such a fun-filled day. Hopefully there will be more like it. Susan Anderson
