AUSSIE DAY AWARDS!

The Australia Day ceremony in the Rene Fox Gardens on Monday morning was a celebration of our great community and a chance to recognise two of our outstanding citizens. Anna Ashton was awarded Citizen of the Year and Jack Gulen was awarded Junior Citizen of The Year. Congratulations to both recipients. The awards are well deserved. Full report and more pictures inside.

ROSIE'S RAMBLE

Congratulations to Anna—well deserved!

We have been watching the cricket in all its forms over the past weeks (something good about watching people racing around in the heat whilst sitting under the fan).

I have been wondering how they put the up-to-date scores etc. on the actual surface of the ground. I presume they are computer generated, but how?

I bought Mr. Ramble a battery operated razor last week and am feeling vaguely guilty about buying something so over-packaged. The package measure 27x24x13cms. It contained a full sized bottle of a good car wash liquid and a microfibre washer as well as the razor and heaps of extra cardboard. Neither the salesman nor I could work out the connection — shaving while washing the car, or using the car wash in the shower.

We had a visitor from England staying last week (she REALLY enjoyed the warm weather). She has been driving for nearly forty years all over the world, and had never been breathalysed until she was pulled up in Kyneton on the way up here.

Have a look at the ingenious Imagination Station in the Rene Fox gardens. Good job, to those who made it.

Surely the heroes at the Australia Day celebration were the ladies who cooked the yummy food in that plastic tent in the heat.

I do hope the women cricketers, footballers etc. do not take up the apparently necessary male habit of spitting—not a good look.

I would like to thank the editors again for the Ramble illustrations—last weeks made the LOL. LOL.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

To The Dunolly Community and the Community Market Stallholders

It is with deep regret that we farewell Lucinda Martin, after a long-standing involvement with the Market, she has felt the need to resign her position of Publicity Liaison Officer & Vice President. Her organisational skills will be missed, however due to the relationships she has formed with the stallholders the Market will continue as planned and we wish her well.

In the interim for all Market inquiries and stall bookings, please call the Dunolly Caravan Park on 54681262 and, if needed, leave a message.

Peter McFadden

On behalf of Dunolly Community Market Committee

Thanks

Last Sunday it was very hot at midnight and a northerly wind was beginning to gust. That was when the fire siren sounded. In summer-time that gives every rural Victorian a feeling of dread. Like many others I suppose, I went outside to see if there were any visible signs of fire around Dunolly. Fortunately for us there wasn't. But a few vehicles were making for the fire station and very shortly the fire truck was heading out of town. Later, as I tossed and turned in the heat, images of fire fighters dealing with flames on such a hot breezy night kept popping into my mind. We are very lucky to have people who care enough about our community to get out of their beds on such an unpleasant night and give so generously of their time. They also risk injury to themselves every time they attend a fire situation. I am in awe of their volunteer service to our community and am very grateful for it.

Elephants Don't Forget, Nor Should Dunolly Thank you Ron Tandberg!

It is often said that everyone in Australia has a link, however tenuous, with Dunolly and that goes for the cartoonist Ron Tandberg who died on 8th January this year.

Some twenty years ago two momentous events occurred in Dunolly. Firstly, Dunolly Hospital was to be closed at the behest of the Kennett government and secondly, an elephant called Ginny packed her trunk and escaped the circus camp near the football oval.

Enraged locals were adamant that the hospital would not close and after a widely publicised campaign it was agreed that it could stay open provided that the community raised sufficient money to 'prove' they were serious! The money was raised through individual pledges, community markets, raffles and two big auctions.

As for Ginny, her escape made headlines around the world, even being reported on the BBC. It made writing begging letters so much easier when they could be started, 'Dunolly, the town famous for Ginny's bid for freedom...'

Ron Tandberg donated the original of a Ginny cartoon to be auctioned for the cause and some lucky bidder will have it on their wall. So, goodbye Ron and thank you from Dunolly.

An Evening with guitarist Bart Stenhouse

Jazz fusion mandolinist/guitarist Bart Stenhouse is coming to the small town of Dunolly on Friday 9th February as part of his Australian tour. Australian born multi-instrumentalist and composer Bart Stenhouse has a deep interest in jazz, world fusion and improvisational styles of music and specialises in the guitar, bass guitar and electric mandolin. His playing style blends different cultures and styles to redefine musical genres and experiment with sonic landscapes. However, it wasn't until recently that he found his true calling – world fusion music. Inspired by his travels across North America, India and Spain, Bart's music explores the signature harmonies, rhythms and instrumental identities of different world music cultures. His musical journey began at the age of nine when he started playing the trumpet, followed shortly by the guitar and the bass guitar after being inspired by his father to play. He has been fine tuning his skills in guitar and bass guitar ever since, completing a Bachelor of Music in Jazz at the Queensland Conservatorium in 2005 and continuing to study privately with some of the world's best. This has included study with North Indian Classical maestro Pandit Debashish Bhattacharya, who plays the Chaturangui (Indian Slide Guitar). Bart has also travelled to Spain and North America to study with different flamenco and jazz musicians, expanding his skill and knowledge in these music genres.

Bart released his debut jazz fusion album 'Blue Benares' with percussionist Abe Stewart in February 2014. Blue Benares is a unique album in that it showcases the skill of Bart and Abe as they worked with local musicians to create raw, original and heartfelt arrangements in a very short time

In developing his skill and portfolio as a career musician, Bart worked at the Queensland Conservatorium of Music as a Lecturer in Music Technology from 2013 to 2015. Over the years, he has also applied his diverse range of skills to work as a film score composer, music producer and studio and live sound engineer. His focus now is in expanding his recording and production services in his Stenwood Studios in Byron Bay, New South Wales, as well as continuing to compose, record and produce his own music under his Stenhouse Records label.

His second release, entitled 'The Best of Times', featured three of the best up and coming Australian jazz musicians: David Galea on electric bass, tenor saxophonist Ben Byrne and Cleon Barraclough on keyboards. 'The Best of Times' was released in 2015 and consists of a fresh mix of Indian classically inspired Jazz with touches of flamenco harmony and spirit.

Wielding his weapons of choice, electric and flamenco guitar and electric mandolin, Bart teams up with original artists across the globe to explore and craft soundscapes not heard before. An experienced producer, Bart records and releases his compositions under his own label, Stenhouse Records.

Hailed as 'one of the best up and coming jazz fusion artists' by Indian slide guitar maestro and guru Pandit Debashish Bhattacharya after his performance at the 2016 India International Guitar Festival, the young Australian composer is fast building a reputation as an original, collaborative and innovative artist.

Church to transform into Good Samaritan Centre

Maryborough Seventh Day Adventist Church members are rolling up their sleeves and doing their bit for the community.

Starting from Thursday, February 8, bags full of healthy groceries will be available for $ 5.00 from the Raglan Street church. The project will be operated out of the new Good Samaritan Centre at the church every Thursday from 3.30 to 4.30pm. With much of the food donated from Foodbank Victoria, the bags contain vital, much needed staple food items such as breakfast cereals and muesli. "It's all healthy food, there'd no junk food," the project's Broden House said. The initiative is open to all community members, not just those who are less fortunate. "Everyone has weeks when they struggle. This is for everyone who needs help, it's for everyone in the community," Broden said. "Jesus mingled with the people and showed them sympathy, we want him to be like him. We wish to follow the example set by Jesus and share his love with our community." The Good Samaritan Centre originally started in Wendouree, Broden said. "After much prayer, we as a church felt God wanted it to start here in Maryborough," he said. "We know many people struggle. Even well-off people have weeks where they struggle and that's what this centre is here for. We believe it is God's will for it to happen in this town"

I hope you have all visited the Arts Hub to view the fantastic Indigenous exhibition that has been on for the past two weekends. Now we have another treat in store for you, local artist Susie Oh will hold an exhibition at the Hub of her beautiful Chinese Ink Paintings. She also has work for sale, cards of the original works and a raffle.

Her exhibition runs for two weekends, the 3/4th & 10/11th of February, opening from 10-2 please don't miss this exhibition, a gold coin donation will get you in.

This year we will be joining the Tiny Towns Art Trail again for the second year. We will be hosting the ReCreate ReCycle Runway. The event will be over two weekend in April 21st-22nd and 28th-29th.

This year we will be hosting a Fashion Show, runway style, as our opening event, with guest speakers on recycled fashion and the need for responsible buying of our everyday fashion. The fashion show will be held within a static exhibition of haute couture outfits made entirely of recycled materials. To achieve the fashion for the runway show, entrants/creators will buy a mystery bag of six hand chosen, recycled pieces of clothing. This will be their entry fee to the competition. They must make a runway outfit that can be worn on the runway from the bag, they can buy as many mystery bags as they like but must supply their own models. The couture show will be a two piece limit but you can let your imagination run wild; supply your own mannequin; work on the piece at the Hub or at home. Only recycled can be used in this section.

The Exhibition will run for two weekends for Tiny Towns Art Trail. After opening night the outfits from the runway show will be put on mannequins and become part of exhibition too. We intend to hold workshops to support the inspirational side of event with guest recycle fashion designers, who will help workshop attendees turn rags into runway chic and the practical side which will be workshops in simple machine & hand sewing, mending and embroidery.

Workshops will be held in how to transform your 'mystery bags' into a runway ready outfit, these will be hosted by local sewers & fashionistas. We think it will be a lot of fun & we will give you more details later on in the month. Check our Facebook page to stay up to date.

Travels With Cynthia

Last time I recounted the rather scary, but in hindsight, rather funny, incident we three girls experienced when travelling to Stockholm. Once in that lovely city there were many things to do, outdoor concerts in the square, up to the hills with the beautiful lakes. However I am not writing a travelogue, as many people have been to the places we visited. Instead I am remembering some of the silly, funny and sometimes scary situations we managed to get ourselves into. I managed this one on my own.

When heading on to Oslo, I was running out of cash and back then with no internet it would take days to transfer money from England, so I insisted the girls go on without me because I had found a job in a restaurant kitchen so would stay on for a few days to earn some money and meet up in Oslo.

Sweden had a very stable economy at that time and in order to get a work permit I had to guarantee the time of employment. I was restricted to a maximum time in order to earn sufficient money to leave the country.

I had met a nice Swedish girl who spoke perfect English, and she found me the job and also invited me to stay with her family. The kitchen was multi-lingual with my friend the only Swede. Her Swiss boyfriend also worked there and to my surprise discovered he also lived with Elsa's family. Sweden, apparently, was much more emancipated than we were in the days when our parents would never allow co-habiting before marriage.

One night I arrived home late after going to a concert and having been given a key let myself in as everyone was in bed. My bed folded into the wall in the living room and I had to press a button to lower it, but unfortunately I pressed the wrong button, the burglar alarm, and next thing a large German Shepherd was racing towards me and, as I thought, about to fly at my throat. Luckily the whole family burst in and called the dog off. You can guess, after the adventure with Lars' dog, and now this, I had a fear of that breed for years after.

Next instalment I will tell you about my very eventful trip to Oslo, hitchhiking on my own.

Cynthia Lindsay

Poetry

“Have a go”

Moving forward don't shuffle back
Carry on don't let go
Every dog must have his day
Like the wheels of Cobb & Co

Ambition it can work alright
In defeat wear a grin
Strength is found in inner self
And the windmill will spin.

You will find full contentment
Like a painting on a wall
Just admire but don't give in Life is at your back and call.

So life is so worth living too
Just get up and have a go
Defeat is not your best get up
Like wheels of Cobb & Co.

Go Anna!

For many years Anna has brought the Arts, particularly visual, to the Dunolly and wider communities. Her areas of involvement include artist-in-residence and many voluntary arts projects such as street decorations. She works with both the pre-school and the primary school, introducing children to the creative arts. Anna plays an important role in community art and her role in the Tiny Towns Arts Trail demonstrated this. She encourages the community to look at the creative side of life.

Australia Day In Dunolly

This year's Australia Day celebrations held in Dunolly's Rene Fox Gardens was very well attended despite the perennial hot weather, to which we have probably adjusted by now. The morning's activities were opened with music performed by Nat singing and playing guitar. Bryce Rawlings proved to be a very able compere who managed to draw some audience participation. The guest speaker was Geg Sassella, former CEO of Ambulance Victoria and previously a Mobile Intensive Care Ambulance Flight paramedic. He emphasised the need to care about other people in the community and recounted an incident he witnessed from the air when tracking a gunman and a Special Force member deliberately stood in the line of fire to protect a young mother with her children. Dunolly's Australia Day award went to Anna Ashton, well known for her many contributions to the artistic community ventures, and a very popular choice.

The Junior Australia Day award went to Jack Gulen for his many achievements in archery, swimming and sport which were outlined by teacher Judy Gibbs, who also praised Jack on his outgoing and polite manner to everyone.

Jan Ford came up to the microphone when the gathering was asked what the celebration meant to each of us and she was wonderful, speaking with great enthusiasm of how lucky we are to live in this country with no Kim Jong Un-style leaders or constant threats to our lives and families. She was so impressive that I believe it would have made everyone dwell on the truth of Jan's words.

The Dunolly Imagination Station

The new art installation in the Rene Fox gardens is the fabulous Imagination Station. It is a delightful piece of Dunolly-centric artistic whimsy. What fun with the interactive sound featuring the pobble-bonk frogs, the Dunolly Street-band, and Terry White singing his original version of the Little List song from the Mikado among other little treasures. There are so many charming little stories to be told in the art work. It will be exciting to see the development in the future art works for the Imagination Station. Congratulations to Anna, Philip and Judy and any others in the team. To add to that, congratulations to Anna Ashton for a well-deserved Australia Day Award.

What a wealth of talent in this little town.

GUERNSEY TO ADELAIDE & THE GOLDFIELDS

Nicholas & Rachel Gallienne and their family arrived in Adelaide on board the Trafalgar in 1849. They were of French descent from Guernsey and had travelled to Plymouth so as to immigrate to Australia. On board was a British sailor named Charles Baker. After a shipboard romance and arrival in Adelaide, Charles Baker married one of the daughters, Marie Gallienne. In Adelaide Peter Le Messurier, also from Guernsey, married another daughter, Sophia Gallienne.

There was a small group of Guernsey families in Adelaide. When gold was discovered in Victoria one of them, Pierre Pallot, travelled to Forest Creek (Castlemaine). After sending word back of how good it was, another party joined him. This group consisted of Nicholas Gallienne, his son Frederick and his two sons-in-law Peter Le Messurier and Charles Baker. At some point, probably in 1852, Peter Le Messurier died. Some or all the party returned to Adelaide where in February 1853 Pierre Pallot married the widow Sophia Le Messurier and took care of her newborn child.

The men returned to Victoria by sea. This time they brought with them the wives Sophia Pallot and Marie Baker. They first went to Kingower in early 1853 then to Jones Creek (Waanyarra). There are numerous conflicting stories of the first discovery of gold at Jones Creek. One of these stories is that Marie Baker was washing dishes in a pool and saw gold in the bottom of it. Charles Baker claimed a reward for this, although technically it was his wife that found the gold. The Rewards Board rejected it due to all the confusion with the other stories.

Over time the families of Baker, Pallot, Gallienne and Le Messurier all settled at Waanyarra.

Another Guernsey man, John Le Tisser, also came across from Adelaide in 1852.

He may have been travelling with the Guernsey party. In November 1852 he took a trip back to Adelaide on board the Selma departing from Melbourne. He returned to Victoria and then in 1855 his wife Mary lost contact with him. She placed an advertisement in the Adelaide Observer of 28th April 1855:

*John Letisser of Willunga -
Your wife is most anxious for your return,
and begs that you will lose no time in returning,
or if that be not possible, of sending to her.*

Mary travelled with her six year old son with her to Avoca, the last known address of her husband. She never found him. They remained and the son, John Thomas Le Tisser, grew up and settled at Talbot.

Yet another Guernsey family, Martin and Judith Queripel, arrived in the district in 1856. They were cousins of Pierre Pallot and came direct from England. The Queripel family settled at Moliagul, then Bealiba.

The Rural Australians for Refugees.

The Maryborough branch of the Rural Australians for Refugees held its high tea and fundraising concert at Ripples on the eve of Australia Day. A delightful afternoon with talented friendly locals. In this era of populist politics, heartless bureaucracy and rising Nationalism, the caring humanity shown by the asylum seeker groups and RAR is needed more than ever. Australians have big hearts and common decency and it was delightful to catch up with friendly locals the next day at the Dunolly and Tarnagulla Australia Day celebrations. Even more wonderful that the second verse of the Australian National Anthem was included so that we could all proudly sing along - "

*'For those who've come across the seas,
We've boundless plains to share;
With courage let us all combine to Advance Australia Fair'.*

A statistical analysis of Australia Day BBQs by the ABS

Australia Day is a day that many of us take a break, socialise, and think about our national identity. To mark the occasion, the Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) has checked the statistics to answer the question: What are we actually like?

Getting Born

While the 26th of January is a day when Australians can tend to indulge in some things, one thing they're not very likely to be doing is having a baby. Indeed, Australia Day is the 5th least common day of the year for babies to be born in Australia, according to recently released ABS data. This situation is potentially a result of doctors themselves scheduling fewer deliveries on a public holiday, and instead delivering sausages in bread to family and friends.

What's actually on the barbecue?

The traditional notion of a barbeque on Australia Day is sure to play itself out in thousands of parks and backyards nationwide, but what's actually on the grill?

The National Health Survey conducted in 2011-12 found that Australians aged 2 years and over reported consuming an estimated 3.1 kilograms of foods and beverages (including water) per day, made up from a wide variety of foods across the major food groups.

Meat, poultry and game products and dishes were consumed by around seven out of ten (69%) people on the day prior to interview. Chicken was the most commonly consumed meat within this category with 31% either eating a piece of chicken or eating chicken as part of mixed dish. Beef was consumed by 20% (either alone or in a mixed dish).

Quenching the thirst

Are we all standing around the barbecue with a beer? Not quite. Alcohol consumption per capita has decreased in Australia during the five years to 2016. In terms of pure alcohol content, the figure has fallen from 10.3 litres in 2011, to 9.7 litres in 2016. And when we do drink alcohol, we're less likely to be drinking beer than in years gone by. In 1995-96, beer represented 54% of all pure alcohol consumed, and this figure fell to 40% in 2015-16.

In 2014-15, 80.6% of Australians aged 18 years and over had consumed alcohol in the past year. A further 8.2% had consumed alcohol 12 or more months ago, and 10.7% had never consumed alcohol. More males had consumed alcohol in the past year (85.6%) than females (75.7%). While it's likely that quite a few Australians will be partaking on January 26, millions of Australians will have alcohol-free drinks in their cups.

Backyard cricket?

Of the Australian population aged 15 years and over, an estimated 60% (11.1 million people) reported that they had participated in sport and physical recreation at least once in 2013-14, compared with 65% in 2011-12.

Walking for exercise was the most popular physical recreational activity, with 19% of people aged 15 years and over walking for exercise at least once in the 12 months prior to interview. Fitness and gym was the next most popular activity (17%), while only 1.2% of people took part in outdoor cricket. So if the cricket bat does come out in a backyard near you, expect a few wide balls and missed shots.

A cigarette behind the garden shed

While a backyard party in years gone by may have featured quite a few people sneaking off to the bottom of the garden for a smoke, the decades of public health campaigns seem to be making an impact.

In 2014-15, 14.5% of adults aged 18 years and over were daily smokers (2.6 million adults), down from 16.1% in 2011-12. This decrease is a continuation of the trend over the past two decades. In 2001, 22.4% of adults smoked daily while 23.8% of adults smoked daily in 1995.

Dunolly begins flood mitigation works

Central Goldfields Shire Council has commenced flood mitigation works in Dunolly.

In 2014 the Dunolly Flood Study was developed by the North Central Catchment Management Authority in partnership with Central Goldfields Shire, community and other representatives following the Dunolly flood on 2011. Central Goldfields Shire Chief Administrator Noel Harvey said the flood mitigation works in Dunolly were essential. "The flood mitigation works to be implemented from the Flood Study are to upgrade the existing contour channel on the east side of the township from the Dunolly-Bridgewater Road to the Dunolly-Eddington Road to improve capacity and the incorporation of a retarding basin. Construction works are underway and are expected to take eight weeks to complete."

The $300,000 project will be undertaken from funding received under the State Governments 2016-2017 Natural Disaster Resilience Grants Scheme.

The construction works will include:

Clearing of vegetation along the alignment of the existing catch drain/levee bank

Reinstatement of the levee bank

Regrading open drain

Repairing retarding basin bank

Construction of inlet and outlet structures

Residents are advised that trees will be removed during the works and will be left at the site.

Department of Environment, Land, Water and Planning will consider creating a Domestic Firewood Collection area in autumn for public collection.

For more information on the project, please contact Central Goldfields Shire on 54761 0364.
