Collectors in Dunolly Sharing Stories and Showing their Most Favourite Treasures

COLLECTORS' CLUB

Despite a low attendance last Saturday, we still managed to view a couple of interesting collections; some miniature vintage musical instruments covered with tortoiseshell and some much-loved children's koala and kangaroo toys from the 1950s and 1960s. Thanks to all who sent their apologies; we look forward to seeing you at our next gathering at Thrifty on Broadway on Saturday 16th March at 2pm.

Curios and Curiosities 45 Years as a Collector - Part 4

This is a long-overdue fourth instalment of the story of my collecting adventures. One of the pleasures I derive from selling, particularly via the internet during the past 17 years, is the ability to pass a previously much-loved item on to a new home. It makes it even more special if I am selling it for a friend, using my acquired knowledge in a variety of collecting fields to find a new owner and make them some money at the same time. In saying that, I am still rather selective in what I choose of theirs to sell in this way, based on its potential, but it becomes even more exciting if it is rare or has a story attached. The object in this story falls into both categories!

Tomorrow is Another Day - A rewrite

I decided to rework a story that I wrote for The Welcome Record in April 2011. I was privileged to participate in the exchange in ownership of a wonderful piece of memorabilia belonging to a long-time resident of the area.

This item was an autograph book in which this person had acquired autographs of Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier on the occasion of their 1948 tour of Australia with the Old Vic. The provenance of the book gave insight as to the atmosphere of the Melbourne of the day and the excitement created by a touch of Hollywood glamour in the post-war years. The story, as related to me, is as follows:-

'In 1948, Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh played in 'Richard the Third', 'School for Scandal' (Sheridan) and 'Skin of Our Teeth' (Thornton Wilder) at the Princess Theatre in Melbourne. They were on an Australian tour with the Old Vic., having been brought to this country by entrepreneur Garnet H. Caroll.

As an 18 year old, living in Melbourne, I had great delight in taking the opportunity of attending all three plays. Queuing overnight in Spring Street in order to procure tickets, including being moved along by authorities on occasions, were all well-worth the end result, all helping to add to the atmosphere of excitement at seeing the Oliviers perform. They played to packed houses and received rave reviews.

ROSIE'S RAMBLE

Did you see the echidna swimming under water on Magical World of Oz on Sunday night? It had its beak above the water so it could breathe and swim through fast water. Who would have thought! A most unlikely looking amphibian.

A number of white-winged choughs have moved in to the paddock just down the road. They are sometimes called happy families as they hang around together in limited groups, and live, work and play together.

I bought a weird looking fruit from the big German store last week. I had heard of them, but never seen one before. It is quite bright pink, pear shaped with green sort of leaves on the body. It is a dragon fruit from Vietnam. The girl at the check-out said they are delicious. When I cut it open, the flesh was white with lots of black seeds. To me it tasted sweetish, fairly bland but nice enough.

Did you know that 16th February was National Tim-Tam day? Only one Tim-Tam day a year? I reckon there should be 365 of them, with a rest day every leap year.

I was rung up by a person last week who was most anxious to tell me that my debit card (which I had had for two days) was about to expire. If I gave him the expiry date he would very kindly see that I was issued with a new one within two days. How silly do these people think some of us are? Banks do NOT cold call people for any reason. I rang the bank concerned to let them know that another smart-alec was on the line. They said the same thing - don't give anyone anything about your bank business.

I am surprised how many people keep the coolers on in their car even when nobody is in it. Are we becoming such a lot of sooks that we can't get into a warm car?

Here's what I am sure you have been waiting for with bated breath — the answer to the reworded saying from last week. It is (trumpet sounds) TWO LEFT FEET.

This week's twisted saying is —
Porcine creatures may become aviators.
Bet you can't wait to know the answer.

Following their performances, the crowds would be eager for further glimpses of their idols, watching them enter their Rolls Royce for the short journey down Spring Street to where they were staying at the Windsor Hotel.

Upon learning that the Oliviers would oblige their fans and supply autographs, I purchased an autograph book, leaving it at the Princess Theatre for signing. Several days later, after much anticipation, I was able to collect it, complete with both autographs. The book has been one of my most valued possessions since that time'.

In deciding to eventually part company with the book, the suitability of its new home was of major consideration to the lady, with the main concern being that she would prefer it to stay in Australia, hopefully with a private collector to whom its provenance had some meaning.

When I listed the book on eBay, detailing the provenance and knowing it would receive much interest, I could not have foreseen the fact that, within Australia, there was someone who, due to his own personal interest and obsession, was desperate to obtain these particular autographs and was the ideal future custodian. Thankfully, after a spirited bidding war, he was the successful bidder! He then told me the background to his obsession!

During 2006, he had visited the town of Marietta, Georgia in the US, the 'Heart of the South'. During his visit, the more he learned, the more fascinated he became with the history of the Southern States. The friend he was visiting, suggested that if he really wanted to know what the old South was really like, he should watch 'Gone With the Wind'. He had heard of the movie and knew that it featured Clark Gable, but at that stage he had never seen it or heard much about Vivien Leigh. On watching it, although it did not markedly increase his knowledge of the old South by any means, he thoroughly enjoyed the movie and its depiction of an era of 'graciousness and elegance that would never be seen again'. He was also 'captivated by the classic beauty and outstanding acting of Vivien Leigh'. He mentioned that he has now seen the movie many times, but the pleasure of seeing Vivien act the part of Scarlett has never diminished.

Not long afterwards, he became interested in collecting autographs, but only from the early Hollywood era, as he said 'the movies made back then were made for entertainment not just a budget'. As a consequence of his increasing passion, he decided to collect autographs of the principal actors of 'Gone With the Wind', however the international prices for some of these were prohibitive. In the meantime, he had added quite a few autographs to his collection, including two from Laurence Olivier. Despite much searching however, Vivien Leigh's autograph had eluded him up until this time.

At the end of the eBay auction, the gentleman was stunned to learn that he had been fortunate enough to become the new owner of the object of his all-consuming quest, not to mention at a price he considered reasonable. Upon eventually receiving the book, he opened it and as he said 'On the first page was Vivien's signature in fountain pen. It looked magnificent!'

He stated that he was 'completely caught up in the atmosphere created by the provenance!'

As a collector, he could completely identify with the lady's anticipation at being able to obtain the autographs of actors she admired so much. He could also relate to the personal value she placed upon the book, saying that 'already it has become one of my most valued possessions!'

As a postscript to this story, the gentleman informed me that he was aware that the National Library in Canberra had, in 1994, purchased an album containing 500 photographs taken on the occasion of the 1948 tour of Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier. He has assured me that his autograph book will never be for sale in his lifetime but that he is intending to leave it, after hopefully enjoying it himself for many years, to the National Library. As he stated, upon his passing, it will complement the album of photographs in the National Library's collection and be kept for posterity.

The local lady was ecstatic that her treasured item had gone to a dedicated collector and was very pleased with the amount it realised. A most desirable outcome for all concerned.

Fleming's Story, A journey to Greatness

His name was Fleming, and he was a poor Scottish farmer. One day, while trying to make a living for his family, he heard a cry for help coming from a nearby bog. He dropped his tools and ran to the bog. There, mired to his waist in black muck, was a terrified boy, screaming and struggling to help himself. Farmer Fleming saved the lad from what could have been a slow and terrifying death.

The next day, a fancy carriage pulled up to the Scotsman's sparse surroundings. An elegantly dressed nobleman stepped out and introduced himself as the father of the boy Farmer Fleming had saved. "I want to repay you;" said the nobleman. "You saved my son's life."

"No, I can't accept payment for what I did", the Scottish farmer replied waving off the offer.

At that moment, the farmer's own son came to the door of the family hovel. "Is this your son"? The nobleman asked. "Yes," the farmer replied proudly.

"I'll make you a deal. Let me provide him with the level of education my own son will enjoy. If the lad is anything like his father, he'll no doubt grow to be a man we both will be proud of." And that he did.

Farmer Fleming's son attended the very best schools and in time graduated from. St. Mary's Hospital Medical School in London and went on to become known throughout the world as the noted Sir Alexander Fleming, discoverer of Penicillin.

Years afterward, the same nobleman's son who was saved from the bog was stricken with pneumonia. What saved his life this time? Penicillin. The name of the nobleman? Lord Randolph Churchill. His son's name? Sir Winston Churchill.

The G&S society started rehearsals on Sunday and we are looking for new music lovers to join our ranks. We are incorporating ukuleles and Steampunk ideas. No need to audition. We are sorry to lose Shelley Di Biase, as she played lead soprano roles in Mikado, Gondoliers and Trial By Jury, but we wish her family all the very best for their move to another town. We hope Shelley will be able to come back and sing with us some time in the future – maybe for Pinafore once they settle in to the new house. In the meantime, let's dance a hornpipe and whistle a tune in readiness for the Queen's Birthday Festival in June.

The Hold Books Have Over Us

Whether you are a dedicated bibliophile or you just like having them around, books play an enormous role in many people's lives. If you've hooked into an author's or publisher's social media account, you will be aware of the many different memes celebrating our love of books.

For example:

"You can't buy happiness, but you can buy books – and that's the same thing!"

"I'm addicted to reading; I'll give up after one more chapter."

Book Hangover:

The inability to start a new book because you're still living in the last book's world.

For some, books are informative and factual. They keep the reader up-to-date with the lives of real people and investigate historical and current events. For others, books offer a chance to let go and relax, dream of faraway lands or indulge in a little romance.

It is exciting when we pick up a new book and glance at its cover. Then, turning it over and reading the blurb we are given an invitation to go on a journey with the characters, real or imagined. It's an exhilarating moment when we start to read a book we haven't read before.

Have you finished a book and felt heart-sad at leaving the characters behind? Have you mourned when a beloved character was killed or cheered when the baddie got his or her just desserts? You are not alone.

Of course books haven't always been presented in the format that we know today. The Ancient Egyptians wrote on papyrus, the Sumerians wrote on clay, and the Chinese on bamboo. However, once the printing press was invented and the general masses learned to read books have come into their own. And in recent years, ebooks have also made their mark.

According to Wikipedia, Australia published over 28,000 books in 2014. Sounds like a lot, but it's nothing in comparison to the USA which published over 304,000 and China which published 440,000. Some of these are reissues of previously published books, but still - that's a lot of books!

And to think all of these journeys published in English are created by just one person using 26 letters of the alphabet.

A few shopkeepers in Dunolly also share a love and a passion for books. Over a coffee one day, the subject arose regarding a book-trail.

This will involve a number of stores selling, promoting and enjoying books, and inviting visitors to follow the trail of bookstores to find their next, life-changing adventure. The book-trail will be an open invitation to anyone who loves books to wander from shop to shop, so stay tuned and watch this space!

Mandeville's coming back to life as Madam Chi Chi

Having undergone renovations for some 18 months, Mandeville's Coffee Palace, now Madam Chi Chi, is soon to re-open its doors to the public, ushering in a new era for the historic building as a delicatessen.

Moving to Maryborough more than 10 years ago, owner of Madam Chi Chi, Belinda Fabry, decided she needed something new in life, setting sights on her dream of opening a deli in the town that captivated her heart.

"I came to Maryborough to teach at the Maryborough Education Centre originally and I've found nothing but a town that just envelops you," she said.

"It came to a time in my life where I felt I needed to have another challenge and I decided to open my own deli, but to do that I needed to go and get some experience and learn those skills.

Ms Fabry said she furthered her dream by spending several years working within the hospitality industry following her teaching career. "Going out and speaking to people and producers face to face is really important in providing people with not just great produce but the story behind it," she said. "There are so many people around who can't wait to tell their story".

Located on the corner of Nolan and Napier streets, the historic building started life as the Yorkshire Hotel in 1863, before becoming Mandeville's Coffee Palace in the latter half of the 1800s.

Ms Fabry said the history visible in the building caught her eye immediately. "When I first saw the building I just fell in love with the space. It's one of those spaces that just calls for people and conversation," she said.

"I wanted to bring the glory of the place back, this space has been calling for the longest time. I've put everything into it and I'm just waiting for the doors to open."

Renovations have included the removal of walls to open the interior space up, the installation of a commercial kitchen and a general facelift for the building's interior.

Ms Fabry said it's important to not only create a social space, but also a place that boasts quality local and imported products. "It was really important to me to create a space that had great food, great wine and great coffee, but I also think it's important to provide quirky homewares and opportunities to come and do different things," she said. "I want people to be able to come here, have good food, catch up with friends and just chill out." Madam Chi Chi is also set to act as a community space, with Ms Fabry planning to host community events such as craft beer tastings, meat smoking Q&A sessions and a mothers' network, all of which are on the horizon.

Travels With Cynthia

The catalyst that started my series of travel articles was the time when my friends found me a copy of Ram Gopal's autobiography, which I had edited and typed, back in my young travelling days. Writing about and remembering that exciting time of my life, triggered so many long forgotten memories.

Returning to my time with Ram, I recall how he brought out from India a number of dancers and musicians to perform with him at the Edinburgh Festival.

There was one young man, and I still remember his name, Ramdas Shinde, who came from a very primitive village where they still carted water and he had never worn shoes. When he was shown his billet he could not cope sleeping in a proper bed as he had always slept on a straw mat on the floor, so Ram decided to let him sleep on the floor in the rehearsal room, and he was quite happy there. Very soon he was joined by some of the other visiting musicians who also preferred the simpler way of living.

In order to give Ramdas a taste of city living, Ram asked me to take Ramdas to see the African Ballet which was performing in London at the time. He was totally in awe of the big theatre and large audience and became very excited with the dancing and thrilling music. Next thing he started beating in time on the back of the seat in front of him and loudly joining in with "tum, tim, tum, tum tum tum".

Oh my God, everyone was turning round, staring and glaring until I was able to restrain him. Of course everyone I told afterwards thought it was hilarious.

After the theatre I decided to take Ramdas to a café for supper. Luckily he was wearing shoes so we went to a trendy place I knew. It's strange, but considering how multicultural London was even then, with large numbers of Jamaicans working on the tubes and in the cafes, we got a lot of stares at a white lady coming in with a very dark Indian. I enjoyed it and asked for a table in the middle to give them all a good look.

The girls I lived with suggested we invite Ramdas for dinner one night so we stupidly decided to make curry to remind him of home, instead of good old English fare. Of course our version of curry would have been as weak as water to Ramdas, but he was very polite and told us how nice it was. He told us his mother had issued two rules for living in England – no alcohol and no women.

I wonder whether she would have approved of us.

Shen Yun – A visual spectacular

Last Sunday, Monika and I had an experience that tantalised the visual and audial senses. We went to see the famed Shen Yun Chinese Dance extravaganza.

It was spectacular! The colours of the costumes alone was enough to enliven the senses, but then add the haunting music and the precise, yet graceful dancing, and the mind reeled with the pageantry.

Shen Yun, what does it mean? Shen is a generic term for myriad Buddhist and Taoist divine beings in Chinese spiritualism and Yun means rhythm and conveys a person's whole bearing – i.e., dancing. So put together it means: "Beauty of divine beings dancing in heaven".

Shen Yun was founded in New York in 2006 by followers of the Falun Gong religion whose mission it was to revive the classical Chinese dance style practiced for over 5,000 years, which they claimed was almost destroyed due to violent political campaigns like the Cultural Revolution by the Communist Party of China¹. The stories, handed down for countless generations, focus mostly on religious teachings and morals, and for this reason are not allowed in communist China. However, the rest of us have no such qualms and the troupe performs all over the world.

Each vignette was prefaced by a description both in Chinese and English, so we could understand the storyline.

Included were some comical stories, like the man who becomes pregnant after accidentally drinking from a magical fertility fountain.

As well, the trio of a monkey, a pig man and a sea serpent, which I recall from the old TV show, Monkey Magic. In all the stories the religious element was very prominent. The myriad deities descended from heaven to either help or punish the humans.

A very clever system was used to depict the gods coming to earth, or alternatively, the humans rising to heaven. A large video screen was the backdrop, with different scenery according to the story. The dancers then dropped off a ledge at the back of the stage and magically appeared as a computerised version on the screen.

There was also an operatic solo accompanied by a brilliant pianist, and a hauntingly beautiful musical piece played on the traditional erhu, a two-stringed instrument that produces a unique sound.

I recommend this show, but as Sunday was the final performance in Melbourne, you will have to go to Brisbane for the next performance, or wait until the troupe returns next year.

What's coming up in Loddon Shire

Have a flutter on a horse, try prospecting, sample some fine fare or size up a giant pumpkin – just a few of the varied and entertaining options on offer for visitors to Loddon Shire this autumn. A suite of scheduled special events heads the long list of reasons to explore the Loddon Valley, a region renowned for its recreational waterways, walking and riding trails, treasured nature reserves and rich goldfields heritage.

An annual favourite is Wedderburn's Minelab Detector Jamboree, planned for the weekend 9th-10th March – a family-friendly weekend focusing on detector skills, gold panning, live music, town garage sales, a country market and the chance to take home some valuable prizes.

The following weekend sees the unveiling of the Loddon Valley Food and Wine Expo, featuring the opportunity of a three-course lunch for 150 pre-booked guests prepared by chef Karen Martini (Better Homes and Gardens) and served with local wines.

Planned for Saturday 16th March at Newbridge, the expo takes place on the banks of the Loddon River and showcases the region's gourmet food and wine, supported by live music and entertainment.

For those not attending the lunch, entry is $10 (under 16 free) or $20 for entry, tastings of food and wine, plus a souvenir wine glass.

On the Sunday 17th March, it's the Boort Pacing Cup, a colourful social day hosted by the oldest continuous trotting club in Australia.

Patrons are guaranteed a lively day's racing, plus access to a sports bar and free children's entertainment.

The Pyramid Hill Fiesta on 23 March celebrates the vibrant contribution of the town's Filipino community, with dance displays, singing, children's entertainment, live music, Filipino and Australian country cuisine and an operating bar facility.

Soon after comes the Eddington Vintage Sports Car Club Sprints, planned for 30 March, featuring vehicles from early 1900s roadsters to classics from the seventies.

Free to spectators, cars compete individually against the clock across 25 classes to set the fastest time they can over the quarter-mile. Historic motorcycles are also run on the day.

Think you can grow a pumpkin bigger than 52.5kg?

That's the challenge for a family day at Simply Tomatoes, near Boort, from noon on 31 March to raise funds for cystic fibrosis research.

Categories will also include decorated pumpkins, best conditioned pumpkin and a separate section for giant specimens of fruit, vegetables and flowers.

On Easter Monday 22nd April, the 149th Rheola Charity Carnival showcases old-fashioned country entertainment, while the Bridgewater Mother's Day Classic returns on Sunday 12th May, with courses for walkers and runners in aid of breast cancer research.

For further details on all these events and even more, phone the Loddon Visitor Information Centre on: (03) 5494 3489 or visit www.loddon.vic.gov.au

Golden Textures arriving at Art Gallery

Central Goldfields Art Gallery has selected 18 of the highest standard contemporary art quilters from across Australia for its upcoming Golden Textures Biennial Art Quilt Exhibition. The quilts will be on display at the Central Goldfields Art Gallery from Saturday 23rd February to Sunday 31st March 2019.

The exhibition will be opened at 2pm on Saturday 23rd February 2019 by Central Goldfields Shire Chief Administrator, Noel Harvey, and everyone is welcome to attend.

Curated by international award-winning textile artist and Maryborough resident, Jenny Bacon, the exhibition has an acquisitive prize of $3000 on offer. The prize-winning quilt becomes part of the gallery's permanent collection. This is the fourth Golden Textures Art Quilt Exhibition and Chief Administrator Noel Harvey says the exhibition will surprise Art Gallery visitors.

"The quilts on display in this exhibition are not what people will think of as a traditional quilt. This display is truly special and is our most colourful of all the quilt exhibitions. Each of the three winners of past acquisitive prizes have supplied another work of theirs, so we can see the progress and mastery of their chosen art and what they have achieved." he said.

Groups are welcome to the exhibition, and where possible, Jenny Bacon will provide groups with a guided tour.

Please contact the Gallery on 5460 4588 to book your group in.

Shire records 100 percent immunisation rates again

Central Goldfields Shire has again achieved 100 percent immunisation of children at five years of age – which is above the state average, according to data from the Australian Department of Health.

The latest figures show that 95.52% of five-year-olds are now fully immunised in Victoria.

Central Goldfields Shire CEO Lucy Roffey said she was thrilled that the Shire has recorded a 100 percent success rate for pre-school aged children.

"Our Maternal and Child Health team provide a first class service which includes immunisation services that are free of charge to all children eligible for Medicare. They provide a key role in educating parents that immunising children provides fundamental protection from diseases including measles, whooping cough, meningococcal and meningitis." she said.

Parents and guardians can keep up to date with when their child's immunisations are due by checking their child's green health book and downloading the Victorian Government's VaxOnTime app or by checking their MyGov account.

Independent local government survey

Community members are invited to take part in an independent University of Melbourne survey to measure what Victorians know and understand about local government.

The anonymous and confidential survey takes between 20 and 30 minutes to complete. The questions asked relate to your opinions on how well you think your local council performs in a range of areas.

Participants will receive a movie ticket as a token of appreciation.

The survey can be found at <http://go.unimelb.edu.au/zhq6> For more information on immunisation in the Central Goldfields Shire contact 5461 5047.

For any other information and interviews contact Central Goldfields Shire Communications Officer Lachlan Steed on 5461 0689.

Around school this week
SCHOOL REVIEW
 This year will be an important year for Dunolly PS as we embark on our school review. Every four years each school needs to conduct a review of all areas of the school. This is a fully inclusive process and we look forward to inviting staff, parents, students and the wider community to provide feedback on the things we do well, our highlights over the past four years and the areas for improvement going forward into the next Strategic Plan.

HEAD LICE
 We have reported cases of head lice. Please check your child's hair regularly. Students cannot be at school until treatment has occurred.
 You also need to keep checking over the following weeks as one missed egg can start the cycle over again.

Morning Munch

 Morning Munch will be starting on Thursdays from February 21st
 We require parent volunteers to assist on Thursday mornings. If you are able to help please call into the school's office and let us know of your availability.
 Free breakfast is served from 8.05am to 8.30am in the multi purpose room
 All students welcome.
 (Please note that only students attending Morning Munch are to be at school before 8.30am)

PFA
 The PFA held their first meeting last week and the captains attended to introduce themselves.
 This a great group within our school community and they welcome new members. You won't have to take on a job unless you wish to and it's a great way to learn about everything happening at school with a Principal's report given at each meeting.
FACEBOOK
 All parents of students enrolled at the school are welcome to request to join the school's closed facebook group – Dunolly PS School Community. In this group we provide updates on what's happening, photos and share newsletters.

Update of Maryborough Aeromedical Transfer Station Project (M.A.T.S.) February 2019

The M.A.T.S. committee is very pleased to inform all supporters that the final hurdle to allow an official launch for the establishment of the planned Maryborough Aeromedical Transfer Station is within sight.

With no objections being received then Central Goldfields Shire can pass a motion to enter into a lease agreement with Ambulance Victoria for the site number 136 Leviathan Road, at the Maryborough Airport. That should happen at the end of the February meeting.

Once the lease agreement has been signed by both parties and that lease agreed to by Department of Environment, Land, Water and Planning (DEWLP) then the project will be officially launched. After this lease agreement is finalised, we can proceed with confidence that the MATS facility will be built.

We therefore request all people and organisations desiring to be involved in the establishment and construction of the Maryborough Aeromedical Transfer Station to pledge their support and start planning for fundraising activities.

Planning for the official launch is underway and while the date is yet to be set, this will be held at the Maryborough Ambulance Station. While the MATS committee has quietly been promoting the need for the facility to the public and at presentation events to a number of groups, we have not been asking for fundraising to be undertaken by supporting organisations. Once all paperwork is in order and we announce the date of the official launch then supporting fundraising activities can proceed with confidence.

However, from the committee's promotional activity, donations totalling $7500 have already been received and at the official launch function a number of substantial sponsorship pledges are expected to be announced.

Our progress to raise the funds required will be published via a thermometer included in the Maryborough Advertiser and displayed on the back of the Town Bus.

As our June 2018 update on progress was not widely distributed, we would like to explain how this project was initiated.

Local Ambulance Victoria Paramedics and Maryborough Ambulance Auxiliary promoted the need for an aeromedical transfer station and the benefits this would have to the community and patient care. Representatives from the Ambulance Auxiliary and other community organisations inspected the Horsham Aeromedical Transfer Station (HATS) facility to learn what was involved in establishing such a project in Maryborough.

During this trip and being guided by the experiences of the HATS committee, the group of representatives selected four community minded citizens (representing no specific group) to lead all those interested organisations in establishing this facility as a wholly community-built project. Once completed the building, to be handed over for use by the local Paramedic Team, will be owned by Ambulance Victoria and the land leased for 21 years in three seven-year tranches. The lease fee has been set using the concessional rate. Outgoings will be covered by Ambulance Victoria.

To enable Tax Deductibility Status the funds are being raised using the Deductible Gift Recipient status of the AV/ Ambulance Auxiliaries. Once the project is completed then any excess funds will be rolled over into the local Auxiliary account enabling access to funds should the project require further enhancement in the future and to provide any Paramedical equipment required.

At our official launch function, we will be announcing a valuable partnership and a number of organisations will be announcing pledges of support that, indications show, will provide a huge boost to our fundraising efforts.

To have this facility completed we are asking the supporting community organisations, businesses and members of the public to come on board with full support to raise funds or provide in kind support of goods and labour to help complete the M.A.T.S. facility.

Following the official launch function then a business launch with breakfast provided is also being planned; to make local tradespeople aware of ways they can provide support.

The committee would like to thank supporters for their patience, but the process everyone has had to work through in securing a site for the building has taken somewhat longer than we had envisaged. We would like to express our thanks to shire administrators and staff for their help in working through this process.

Keep an eye out for the date of the official launch; we hope to send out invitations, but everyone will be welcome to attend should we miss any organisations or businesses.

We hope that this update is widely distributed to members of all organisations so please forward via email or attach to correspondence.

Looking forward to seeing many interested members of the public at the official launch.

We thank everyone for their dedicated support of the M.A.T.S. Project

Yours sincerely,
M.A.T.S. Committee

Lost and Found

The other day I lost my handbag which is a strange thing to lose. I was in town and went to the post office, then the butchers and over to the supermarket, holding my wallet rather than returning it to my handbag, as I would need it again. When I returned to the car I realised I couldn't start the car without the keys which were in the bag. I asked Maddie, who was on the back seat, but she hadn't seen my bag.

Now to retrace my steps - first post office, then butcher and finally the supermarket. When I walked in there was Elke unzipping my bag to find a name. "Oh, so that's where I left it", I exclaimed with delight.

"No you didn't", said a customer at the counter, a nice man whose name I forgot to ask. "I found it on the seat outside the butcher's". That seemed rather puzzling until I thought back and remembered that when I came out of the shop I had put my handbag on the seat while I put the meat into my shopping bag and obviously set off to the supermarket with shopping bag only, and clutching my wallet.

That was a relief although I knew it would turn up. The crazy thing was that when I retraced my steps I would have walked past the bag without noticing it. When I told my daughter, who lives in Melbourne, I asked her what would happen if she had done the same. She said first of all she wouldn't do it and secondly it would be stolen. These are the joys of living where I live.

"From a business perspective, what we'll have here is a community space," she said. "Maryborough is on the precipice of so many things, I have faith in this community and want to be able to support it. It's important people from outside the community see the things we offer here in Maryborough." Ms Fabry said Madam Chi Chi will sell produce from around the district. "Whether it's a slice of cheese or some jam, people can buy it here," she said. "I want to promote produce in the area because we have so much to offer."

Madam Chi Chi is set to open its doors on Wednesday, March 6 and will be open from 11am until 10pm Wednesday through Sunday.

Hard waste collections

In early March, Council will conduct its annual kerbside hard waste collection of metals, recyclables and white goods.

If you live in the township boundaries of Boort, Pyramid Hill, Mitiamo, Dingee, Serpentine, Borung, Wychitella, Korong Vale, Wedderburn, Inglewood, Bridgewater, Newbridge, Tarnagulla, Laanecoorie or Eddington, please place items out on the nature strip on Sunday 3 March 2019. Items should not be placed on the nature strip before 3 March 2019. Council staff will collect and remove these items from Monday 4 March 2019.

For residents in the Logan area, you can deposit hard waste at a collection point located on the Logan Kingower Road opposite the Avoca Forest Hotel on Sunday 3 March.

If you're a Fenton's Creek resident, you can leave hard waste at a collection point located adjacent to the Fenton's Creek Hall on Sunday 3 March.

This hard waste will also be collected and removed starting Monday 4 March 2019.

Items are to be sorted into piles (metal items, recyclable items and white goods). The total volume must not exceed one cubic metre in size. Please note, excessive or unsorted piles will not be collected.

Perishables, tyres, oils, batteries, paints and chemicals, car parts, mattresses, televisions, computers/monitors and garbage will not be picked up.

Any unsuitable items left behind after collections should be removed from your nature strip immediately.

Community grant applications opening soon

Applications for Council's Community Grants Scheme will open in early March 2019.

Grants of up to $10,000 are available for not-for-profit clubs and organisations based in the Loddon Shire to deliver projects that directly benefit residents.

The Community Grants Scheme aims to help not-for-profit organisations enhance the provision of activities, facilities or delivery of services to people in our community.

Successful grant applications are funded on a two-to-one basis. This means for every $2 provided by Council, the successful applicants must contribute a minimum of $1 towards the cost of the project. Up to 50% of an applicant's contribution can be in-kind.

Council started the scheme to assist recreation, sporting and service organisations to deliver projects that improve the quality of life for residents.

Last year the scheme allocated almost $142,000 in funding across the Shire, with 26 groups receiving full or partial funding.

Applications for Council's Community Grants Scheme close at 5pm, Wednesday 1 May 2019. Please note, that applications must be submitted online through Smarty Grants. The link will be available on Council's website prior to the grants opening in early March. Support will also be available to assist with the Smarty Grants process. To find out more, call Council's Community Support Team on 5494 1200.

Council wants your opinion

Council's next quarterly community satisfaction survey is underway. If you have received a survey asking you to confidentially provide your views and opinions about Loddon Shire Council, please ensure you return your survey by Monday 11th March.

The survey, which should take about 15 minutes to complete, is an opportunity to have your say on the Council services that matter most to you and provide feedback regarding Council and other issues. The input you provide is also valuable in terms of helping Council improve future service provision.

The survey is being undertaken on behalf of Council by Key Research Group and involves surveys to randomly selected households in the Shire.

Council is conducting these surveys with different community members every quarter. This is to ensure we get a range of feedback from as many of our residents as possible. You can expect to be asked to provide your feedback about once per year.

If your household has received a survey and you have any questions or feedback about the survey, please call Thinkfield on 1800 671 887.

The next survey will be conducted from Friday 5 April to Monday 29 April 2019.

Leadership program launch

I would like to take this opportunity to wish the latest participants in the Loddon Murray Community Leadership Program (LMCLP) every success.

For more than 20 years, the LMCLP has been a valuable program in helping shape our next generation of rural and regional leaders in our communities.

The LMCLP held its 2019 launch last Friday (15 February), which was attended by my fellow councillors Geoff Curnow and Colleen Condliffe.

Did you know?

Since the Community Grants Scheme started in 2000-2001, Council has provided around $2 million to support almost 700 community-based projects, worth more than $5 million.

Morris' Murmur

Morris, an 82 year-old man, went to the doctor to get a physical. A few days later the doctor saw Morris walking down the street with a gorgeous woman on his arm. A couple of days later the doctor spoke to Morris and said, "you're really doing great aren't you?" Morris replied, "Just what you said Doc. - 'get a hot mamma and be cheerful'" The doctor said, "I didn't say that, I said 'You've got a heart murmur, be careful'".

Dunolly's Broadway filled with the fabulous cars from the District's Car Clubs on Sunday 17th February 2019

It was great to see Dunolly buzzing with an array of colourful restored motor vehicles last Sunday, while their proud owners congregated in and outside the Bakery and Pub, enjoying their morning tea and lunch.

With the influx of new shops opening in Broadway, it is hoped that more of these groups will see Dunolly as an exciting and desirable destination for their tours.
