Resident Artist in Dunolly

Last weekend I visited the Arts Hub to view all the works of our talented locals. There were some extremely good photographs and paintings, plus other most imaginative works, in particular a dragon made entirely from silver cutlery. Quite incredible! Our ex-Dunolly resident, Coral, arrived while I was there, as she often does turn up to the many Dunolly events. She mentioned having called in at the Puzzle Flat Gallery en-route to the Arts Hub, where she had seen some interesting art work .

I decided to do the same and my eye was caught by a set of small, very beautiful landscapes at the front of the gallery.

Rory told me the artist was Kerri White and she was right beside me. I remembered seeing a painting I had admired just before at the Arts Hub which had won first prize in its section, by Kerri White. She is a local resident and has won many prizes in Art exhibitions and has had a number of exhibitions, most recently at Gallery 127, Avoca. I was pleased to have met the artist in person after being so taken with her work and will watch out for her name again.

Art & Photography Show 2019

As The Welcome Record is a major sponsor of the show, I was pleased to have been asked to officially open the proceedings.

Unfortunately, due to the very welcome, but disrupting rain, there were only a few people in attendance.

More came over the course of the weekend to view the amazing collection of art in different mediums. What a great bunch of extremely talented people we have in our district.

As I mentioned in my speech, most are seasoned artists; however, due to the ministrations of Carla Scholes at the primary school, we have artists of the future in our children. Well done everyone. A fine display.

Hasn't the rain been great? Everything seems to perk up after a good drink from the sky

The CWA ladies gave me a magnificent petunia today. This may be a strange word for the humble petunia—but in this case it fits. It has bright purple flowers with what can only be called splotches of white, and is called Night Sky. The label says it can grow to 60cms high and 90cms wide. That's not a plant—that's a small shrub. I love it!

I went to the Art and Photography Show at the Hub on Saturday. What a clever lot of people there are around the place. The photos taken by the primary school children were great—smart and some amusing. The cutlery dragon inside the front door was most impressive. Recycling at its best.

Did you know that tearing around on a motorbike in long dry grass on a boiling hot day when there is no fire ban is OK? If a fire starts, then they are in trouble. Bit late then.

I have found if I get an attack of the minor munchies, a couple of pieces of crystallised ginger helps with that starving feeling.

Tried one of the recipes from the 1986 CWA magazine from the op shop today. Very nice—tasted like a muesli health bar and cheaper than the shop ones.

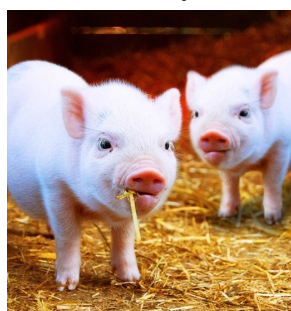

Something big and grey is approaching in the eastern sky. I reckon we are going to get a storm. Wrong—now there is a rainbow over it. No more on the spot weather reports.

KIDSTUFF—

When I was first born, my dad had a celebration. My mum had an early night instead.

The nice part of me gave some toys to charity, but the rest of me was jealous.

On the farm, they live in styes and eat swill! No wonder they are called pigs.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Inappropriate art work in Broadway

As one of the so-called 300 locals who supported the sculptures, I was dismayed to find they were to be placed in Broadway. This news seems to have deceptively come from nowhere. Judy Meldrum writes that there was widespread community consultation over two years. I have heard her speak about it at a number of meetings, but Broadway was never mentioned.

The Central Goldfields Shire should also be accountable for this. The area has a Heritage overlay. This means heritage colours only and approval by council. I don't recall this coming up at any council meeting.

So has the council ignored their own Heritage Advisor or failed to get advice? Or has the CEO Lucy Roffey failed to inform the Administrators of the correct process?

During October and November an American TV series has been filming in Dunolly. Will this be the last to showcase the Bendigo Hotel? Was the loss of this income and future tourism taken into consideration?

John Tully

Street Display

A letter in last week's Welcome Record suggested relics at the back of the Dunolly Museum would be better in the street than the proposed artwork. We previously offered this to the council but it was refused.

Goldfields Historical & Arts Society

Art works and locations

Placement of anything in front of the Bendigo Hotel is inappropriate because it restricts photo opportunities. It will no longer be possible to get a full frame view from across the street. People will have to carefully choose restricted camera angles to avoid an inappropriate object being in view.

Bendigo Hotel — I am quite aware of the wall collapse; in fact I have photographs that proved the dangerous, incompetent and blatant cowboy work that caused the wall to collapse. The Bendigo Hotel was wrecked by a National Trust process, then very expensively repaired and subsequently ignored ever since.

The Bendigo Hotel is the oldest remaining building in Dunolly, 1857. It is in the main street and was used for court sessions, local government, education, public meetings and so forth. I would argue that grant money would be better used to put the Bendigo Hotel to community use rather than furthering the potential supply of neglected, disintegrating and non-operating items such as the Imagination Station in the Rene Fox Gardens.

The renovated Court House and associated buildings in Market Street are all interactive and tell a history of public service and law. They are a magnificent achievement putting networking skills and contacts to work for a public benefit and is always worthy of acknowledgment, respect and pride. The art installation that has been there since April last year does nothing to enhance this location.

Stephen Barnham

Who Knew?

There is a lot of controversy regarding the placement of the art sculptures on Broadway.

Was there any community consultation on the placement? Last I knew they were meant to be in the Gordon Gardens.

In Support of Modern Art

I would like to raise my hand and say how impressed and honoured I am that we are going to be the proud owners of Deborah Halpern's work. I realise that there are some people who don't believe that the sculptures fit into our town's historical landscape, and they would be right. And, that's the point. In my opinion, modern art isn't about reproducing what has been done before. It's not about fitting in, being pleasant or even nice. Art should be challenging. It should make us stop and think about our culture, our society and ourselves. Many of the artists we love today broke away from acceptable practices. Just think Monet, and Van Gogh and the list goes on and on.

If nothing, Halpern's sculptures will get noticed. You couldn't walk past one and not see it, that's for sure. They are brash, colourful, ingenious and yes, they take centre stage everywhere they sit. Visitors to town are going to stop and ask questions. They are going to want to know why a renowned artist like Halpern chose Dunolly, a little country town, to share her work. They are going to want to know what they are about, who designed them and, of course, who participated in the project. They are going to start conversations, and people are going to photograph themselves next to them, then share those images with others all over the world. Not everyone is going to love them, but that doesn't matter because modern art isn't about being agreeable, but it is about making a statement. And these sculptures will tell people that our town is highly regarded, full of talented people, has a wonderful sense of fun, and has the courage to stand out from the crowd.

Susan Day

In Favour of Art

As someone who grew up in Dunolly and continues to be invested in the community, I've been incredibly disappointed to see some of the dialogue surrounding the Sense of Place project.

Dunolly was an amazing place to grow up as a child - artists, musicians, and performers would visit school to teach us creative skills; one highlight was the wooden logs that we decorated to be placed around town. I'm sure they weren't as aesthetically pleasing as I remember, but we all felt pride seeing them in place. I remember everyone at town events painting ceramic figures to be placed on planter boxes and installed on our main streets, and as an eight-year-old I was able to bring friends to the Town Hall and show them which one was mine.

Another highlight was our annual Gold Rush festival, with kids spending afternoons at The Ministry of Fun to create costumes and instruments to wear and play in the festival. We'd march up Broadway to parade the costumes we'd made to a community that encouraged and supported us.

This was all regardless of the financial status of each kid - it was accessible to everyone, and we all bonded over it.

To see a few residents attacking a project worked on by over 300 others in our community, including our school kids and Kindergarten groups, because they value keeping everything exactly as it's always been for the sake of traditionalism, is heartbreaking.

Almost every project and event I mentioned has been organised and spearheaded by Anna Ashton, and she continues to make art accessible to kids in an area where it's easy to become disconnected from community and culture, and that can have incredibly negative effects,

Just because something isn't created for you doesn't mean nobody will appreciate it, and seeing the entitlement of those wanting to control the community without contributing to it is so much less than Dunolly deserves.

To the kids whose drawings formed the basis of these amazing collaborative projects - congratulations!

Your art deserves to be seen, especially because it's an example of what our community can create when we come together to support creativity.

I hope you can become a generation who feels their community wants to engage with and celebrate them, rather than being pushed aside for "traditional aesthetics".

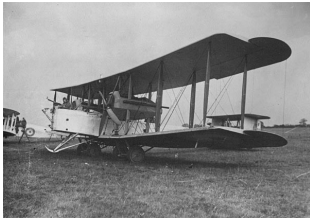

Dunolly is part of my life story and I am part of its, and every child growing up here today deserves the same connection and community.

Local Aviation History

The first airmail to Australia from England

There is a local part to the story that commenced 100 years ago.

In 1919 Prime Minister Billy Hughes put up a £10,000 prize to the first Australian to fly from England to Australia in less than thirty days. Many competed, some died. In England, on 12th November 1919, Keith and Ross Smith with their mechanics

Wally Shiers and James Bennett took off for Australia in a Vickers Vimy bomber arriving in Darwin on 10th December. They won the prize, which was divided evenly four ways. It is a long and inspiring story that can be found in the Dunolly Museum website. What is not generally known is the displayed plane in South Australia has many replica parts due to one of the two trucks transporting the machine catching fire.

20-3-1920 Dunolly and Bet Bet Shire Express

Probably very few Australians have had the distinction of having received letters by the first aerial mail between Great Britain and Australia, but that distinction is possessed by a young lady in this district – Miss Florrie M'Pherson, daughter of Mr and Mrs W. M'Pherson, of "Laurie," Betley. Miss M'Pherson had been in correspondence with a young English lady, letters having been exchanged during the war in connection, we think, with school matters. In any case, Miss M'Pherson's English correspondent, Miss Winnie Whatling, had the opportunity of utilising the first aerial mail service between Britain and Australia, the success of which has so greatly interested, not only the public of Australia, but the populations of every country in the world. The letter, in fact, was brought out with other mail matter by the famous aviator, Sir Ross Smith, who with his brother and other companions, so recently completed the air trip from England to Australia. The letter was delivered at the office of the Prime Minister of Australia, and was sent from that office to Miss M'Pherson. The envelope in itself is a curiosity, and will be valued, stamped as it is with the record "First Aerial Mail – Great Britain to Australia, Nov. 26," with other details relating to the Vickers Vimy machine. The special stamp is unique, and would be valued by collectors, as comparatively few of them are in existence, and it is a memorial of a wonderful enterprise. On this splendid stamp is printed "First Aerial Post" (on top) and "England and Australia" (below), and between a sketch of the British Isles and Australia, with a lighted torch in the centre, and above it the representation of an aeroplane. The defacing stamp on the envelope and other marks all relate to the great undertaking. The young English correspondent of Miss M'Pherson occupies a responsible position in the Vickers Vimy office, and thus was able to utilise this marvellous mail. The letter is addressed from Surrey, England and the following are extracts:-

"I am sending this letter by air. Quite a novel way, isn't it? I should say that by the time this letter is delivered to you it will have passed over a good many interesting and strange places. How I would love to be with it! It was in a similar seat in which the carrier of this letter will sit that I took my first flight. I think it is very kind of this Australian aviator to carry this letter for me, and I sincerely hope that it will reach the destination safely. I think it stands a very good chance if all the good wishes, etc., which accompany it this trip. Will it not be another great honour for these works (Vickers) if this machine wins this great race? It is almost the same type of machine that flew the Atlantic. It has such a dinky little mascot on the top plane made of brass.

It is an image of a little pilot, with two joysticks (like a steering wheel with which they control tail planes) in its hands, and a propeller in front. I have had it with me in the office all the morning, and it has just been placed in position on the machine in which they hope to start their long flight to Australia tomorrow. Trusting all will be well, and that you will be one of the first to receive your mail by air." The letter is signed "Your loving English friend, Winnie Whatling."

(Museum enquiries made to aviation historians have failed to reveal anything about the mascot and as yet we do not know where 'Laurie' was located at Betley)

Stories from Cynthia

A light has just gone out of my life. My amazing little great-granddaughter went home to Canberra two days ago with Holly, her mother, who rescued me in my last story.

Layla is ten months old and the friendliest, happiest, cleverest baby in the entire universe. She is ten months old and had just started to stand up on her own when she arrived two weeks ago, so I was confident that she would take her first steps while staying with me. I couldn't count the number of times Layla stood poised ready for flight, taunting us all, and then she would sit down and laugh. However, the cruel blow happened at the end of the first week. My good friends had invited us around for morning tea and Layla was standing at the coffee table playing with toys. My friend's husband was sitting on the couch and suddenly Layla let go of the table and took a few unaided steps to him. And I missed it! How dare he be the first to witness that mammoth occasion! I am over it now because the next day Layla took two steps over to me.

Some people may call me a doting Granny. Well they would be right. Cynthia Lindsay

Grants for small-scale and craft producers

The Victorian Government has announced two grants aimed at encouraging growth in small-scale and artisan food producers. Development of small business and craft agribusiness will assist to create new jobs and attract more visitors from interstate and overseas to enjoy locally made food, beer and spirits.

There are two streams of funding available under the new program: the first provides grants of up to $25,000 for small-scale and craft business development, to support scale up, expansion and diversification of products. The second stream provides between $25,000 and $200,000 for significant projects that will deliver benefits to the community and generate jobs.

For more information including eligibility and application details, visit the Agriculture Victoria website: <http://agriculture.vic.gov.au/agriculture/food-and-fibre-industries/artisanal-agriculture>

Recycling: keep it up

While it may seem that recycling in Victoria is in crisis with tonnes of recycling being dumped in landfill, this is not the case in the Loddon Shire. Council’s waste services contractor (Veolia) has confirmed it remains unaffected by the recycling industry issues brought on by processing plant closures in Melbourne recently, and it is ‘business as usual’. Currently all recycling material collected within Loddon Shire is transported and processed in either Bendigo at Endeavour, owned by JJ Richards, or the Multi reuse facility (MRF) in Echuca, owned by Veolia. Once collected, Veolia or one of Veolia’s sorting partners will use a number of technologies to pre-screen and manually separate the recyclables into viable streams that will enable their reuse in new manufacturing processes. Council not only implements a best practice kerbside collection for waste and recycling but also provides local football/netball/hockey grounds with bins for recycling and garbage, including pick-up free of charge. Council also produces an annual Recycling Calendar to assist households. For a personalised bin collection calendar with optional reminders, download the Loddon Mallee Waste Info App which is available through the App Store or Google Play with the search ‘Loddon Mallee’. In the last financial year we collected 619 tonnes of recycling from Council’s kerbside collection contract. In addition, 65 tonnes of comingled recycling was collected at Council landfills and transfer stations.

We welcome the news that Mr Peter Tuohey has been appointed Victorian Rural Assistance Commissioner. Peter, who is a Pyramid Hill farmer and former VFF President, will advise the Minister on long-term drought support strategy and the effectiveness of current drought support packages by engaging directly with farmers and communities.

Statutory Meeting

I would like to invite members of the public and interested residents to the Statutory Meeting of the Loddon Shire Council which will be held at 7pm on Thursday 7th November, at the Pyramid Hill Bowling Club, 98 Victoria Street, Pyramid Hill. The meeting deals with the presentation of the 2018/19 Mayoral Report, the election of the Mayor for 2019/20 and appointments to committees. A light supper and refreshments will be provided.

Coliban water community rebate

Coliban Water has five key customer outcomes. They are:

- Supply high quality water you can trust
- Provide infrastructure and services to meet customer needs now and in the future
- Reduce our environmental footprint and achieve a socially responsible, sustainable business for future generations
- Open and transparent about pricing and service disruptions and easy to do business with
- Support the liveability of the region

To support Coliban Water's commitment to customers, 15 customer and community rebates have been introduced.

Dunolly and District Inc acts as a reference group for Coliban Water. The group was pleased to welcome Rebecca McHutchison, Community Relations Specialist, at last Wednesday's meeting. She advised the group that due to infrastructure and treatment processes Laanecoorie/Dunolly had received poor quality water from 10-17 July 2019. This breached their customer outcomes and Coliban water is offering a community rebate of $5000 to be used for the Laanecoorie/Dunolly community.

In order to assist in deciding how this money is best used, DDI is asking the community for suggestions. What community project or issue would you like this money used for? Your responses can be given to Anna Ashton on 0490 077 902 or me on 0438 168 634

The Administrators voted on 27th August to relinquish the Maryborough Airport CASA Accreditation at that Public meeting. We immediately applied for them to delay the decision, enter into Public Consultation and reassess the decision.

This led to one letter and two meetings with the administrators. The last meeting, 24th October, with 24 objectors and the answer was still NO change in decision. Also a VCAT application for Review of decision. This VCAT application was rejected by VCAT on Thursday 3rd October.

Friday 1st November 2019, the Airport's CASA accreditation was withdrawn under the CEO's instructions., Our Airport now is an Aircraft Landing Area.

We would like to thank all who supported this issue and maintained your interest in supporting the development for the betterment of our community.

Our (CGR&RAI's) issues were inadequate public consultation and unsubstantiated reports and data in the report. All we asked was, substantiate your figures and if they are accurate we will support your decision. This the shire refused to do. We will continue to stand up for our community.

We will be giving an update on this at our next Public meeting at Carisbrook Senior Citizens Hall Urquhart St Carisbrook, 12th November at 7.30pm. All welcome.

Leading Excellence

October 25th saw the graduation of Rod Stuart and Susan Day, Dunolly business owners, from the Leading Excellence Maryborough program at the Highlands Society, Maryborough.

Over the previous eight months, Rod and Susan learnt about the importance of leadership in the community. They attended lectures, workshops and networked with a wide variety of people based in Maryborough and even wider afield, in Bendigo and Newstead, and at home in Dunolly. Their skills and confidence were strengthened as they were introduced to local issues and innovative ideas for action and change. They met leaders from all walks of life and listened to their stories of change, courage and empowerment.

LEAD Loddon Murray ran the program to develop leaders for vibrant and sustainable communities. The program developed leadership in three domains: effective and responsible leadership of self, teams and communities.

The Leading Excellence Maryborough program supports those who were passionate about and proactive in their community, industry or sector.

It was an honour to have been a participant and work with the future leaders of our community.

SAY THANK YOU BY WEARING A POPPY THIS REMEMBRANCE DAY

Dunolly-Bealiba RSL Sub-Branch calls on local residents to purchase a Poppy this November.

The 2019 Poppy Appeal has begun, and the Dunolly-Bealiba Sub-Branch needs your help to raise much-needed funds to support our veterans.

Dunolly-Bealiba Sub-Branch President, Richard Gale, is calling on the local community to support this year's Poppy Appeal, "from November 1, our volunteers will be selling the much-loved and iconic red poppy in our local community."

"By purchasing a poppy, you are not only remembering those who have served in the past, but you are also helping to support those who are still serving today, as 100 per cent of the proceeds from the sale of every poppy goes towards supporting service men, women and their families in times of need." Dunolly-Bealiba Sub-Branch President said.

RSL Victoria State President, Dr Robert Webster OAM, added: "Every donation to the Poppy Appeal contributes to the RSL's vital work of supporting veterans and their families when in need."

"For example, the funds raised by the sale of single $10 Poppy Appeal pin may go towards the purchase of a mobility scooter for an elderly veteran, pay for a young veteran's crisis accommodation, and support health and wellbeing programs for veterans throughout Victoria," he said.

Dr Webster went on to say that people should feel proud when they wear the Poppy.

"You should feel proud when you wear the red poppy, as your donation will have helped to change a veteran's life," he said.

Poppy Appeal merchandise can be purchased from RSL Sub-Branches, and Woolworths and Officeworks stores.

Donations to the Poppy Appeal can also be made online at poppyappeal.com.au.

A very busy Martial Arts Champion

What a crazy couple of weeks I had. I went to Warrnambool on 18th October for the competition on Sunday 20th October; just thought I would do a few days of sight-seeing first. I won Gold in the Open division and 3rd in the Veteran division, then drove back on Monday 21st, flew to New Zealand the next day to attend the Martial Arts Championship on Saturday 26th October.

I arrived in Auckland on Tuesday and the Sky City was on fire. It burned for three days, despite the fact it was raining for three days, but the wind was over 110km/hr. I could see the smoke from my hotel room window. It was a pity as the Sky City was one of the attractions I was going to visit.

I went on the Sight Seeing Hop-on Hop-off bus for the next two days; it was great value for money. For $20 the bus stopped at 14 different attraction sites, and we could hop off at any stop and catch the next bus back.

I wish I had more time to visit more places, but I had to attend the pre-tournament training on Friday evening. I decided to take it easy that day and went to the Salt Cave for a relaxing Vibrosau massage and Halotherapy. Love the Salt Cave; I could easily stay there the whole day.

Saturday was the New Zealand Martial Arts Championship and I won 3rd place in weapon Fan-form which I don't normally do, but I didn't want to bring SAI and any weapons to New Zealand. However, I knew I could get the fan into the country; just had to make up a form that day.

I flew back to Melbourne that night as I had another tournament on Sunday to attend — National All Styles State Championship. I had half a day to kill before my flight back on Saturday, and Auckland Airport had free shuttle bus to Butterfly Creek, Dinosaur Kingdom. It was a great idea to have a theme park near the Airport and they offer free shuttle bus service there.

Sunday was the National All Styles State Championship and I won 1st place in Advance-form and became the State Champion in my division.

New Look for The Welcome Record

People passing the Town Hall on Broadway may have noticed some recent changes to the front of The Welcome Record Office.

In a joint venture between the Historic Precinct Committee and The Welcome Record Committee, signage was erected on the doorway, where there was previously none. A larger weatherproof noticeboard was also attached to the wall, to replace an older board which was showing its age.

In keeping with the heritage of the building, the signage was designed to match the font on the old Town Clerk's Office sign above the doorway. The board will be generally utilised for The Welcome Record, Town Hall and other event notices.

Now there will be no excuse for anyone not knowing where we are located; our office is open on Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 9am to 4pm and copy has to be received by 4pm each Tuesday.

Central Goldfields paramedics and hospital staff rise to meet record demand

People in Central Goldfields Shire are waiting less time than ever before for elective surgery and urgent specialist appointments, despite huge surges in the number of people attending hospitals driven by an unprecedented flu season, new data shows.

The Labor Member for Western Victoria, Jaala Pulford, has released the hospital and ambulance performance data for the September quarter and thanked hardworking doctors, nurses and paramedics for rising to meet record demand.

The unprecedented flu season started early and hit hard with more than 66,000 laboratory-confirmed cases across Victoria, meaning hospitals have had to treat far more patients than anticipated this winter. The Andrews Government recently topped up hospital funding with a massive $200 million flu package.

The latest state-wide performance data shows hospitals saw 474,175 patients in EDs – 23,300 more than a year earlier. Despite this, 100 per cent of the Category 1 most urgent patients were treated immediately upon arrival.

Ambulance services also managed the largest number of emergency cases for the quarter with 78,130 Code 1 call-outs to September. This is up from 69,753 in the same quarter a year earlier.

Despite the additional pressure on hospitals, elective surgery patients received their operations quicker than ever before – with more than half of all elective patients receiving their operations within 26 days.

More than half of Category 1 urgent patients received their surgery within 10 days – well under the 30-day benchmark. The Labor Government’s investment in streamlining access to hospital specialist clinics has also seen sustained improvement in wait times – with more than half of all urgent patients seeing a specialist within 16 days.

Our dedicated paramedics managed more than 8300 extra callouts across the state in the September quarter, arriving within the benchmark of 15 minutes for 83.3 per cent of Code 1 calls – a huge improvement from 71.8 per cent in 2014 under the Liberal Nationals.

Central Goldfields Shire’s times continue to improve, with Code 1 ambulances arriving in an average 14 minutes 51 seconds – an improvement on the 15:53 arrival time a year earlier. In Central Goldfields ambulances responded to 217 Code 1 calls, up on the 212 call-outs in the September quarter 2018.

The Labor Government has invested a record $1 billion to deliver more paramedics, more vehicles and more stations. This includes a big $299 million boost in the Victorian Budget 2019/20.

Ms Pulford said Victoria’s hospitals and ambulance service have done a tremendous job keeping up their high levels of patient care during our worst flu season on record.

“I want to thank each and every one of our incredible paramedics, doctors, nurses and other health workers in Central Goldfields Shire for their care and dedication in treating patients quickly and efficiently despite the extra pressure,” Ms Pulford said.

“We back our health and ambulance services because even during busy times like this Victorians deserve the very best care, when they need it, close to home,” she said.

Out-of-control burn-offs prompt warning

CFA is urging residents in Central and Western Victoria to take extreme care when burning-off after responding to out-of-control private burn-offs across areas of the state not yet in Fire Danger Period.

State Duty Officer Kade Dowie said volunteers had responded to a spate of unregistered fires taking up hundreds of volunteers' hours unnecessarily.

"We encourage residents in the areas not yet in Fire Danger Period to take advantage of the window of opportunity to clean up their properties before the bushfire season, but the effects of an out-of-control fire can be devastating," he said.

"In last week's hot and windy conditions, we've seen quite a few burn-offs flare up a couple of days after the burn-off, which highlights the importance of making sure your burn-off is fully extinguished. We'd urge anyone who has burnt off in the past few days to double check that it has been fully extinguished.

"It is vital people do the right thing by checking conditions, complying with local by-laws and registering their burn-offs. A two-minute call is all it takes to register the burn," Mr Dowie said. "It is absolutely essential that you have enough water on hand to put out a fire. There isn't enough time to run back to your house if your fire gets out of control. You should construct a fire-break, free of flammable, materials around any burn-off".

Burning off undergrowth and other vegetation may generally be permitted outside of the Fire Danger Period, but landowners should always check local laws and register their burn-off by calling 1800 668 511.

Property owners have legal obligations when burning off. Failing to comply with local council by-laws and state legislation can lead to a fine.

Mr Dowie said registering burn-offs by calling 1800 668 511 would ensure the burn could be added to the statewide register.

"All calls to Triple Zero about smoke sightings are cross-checked with that register, and firefighters are called out if nothing is listed for that location," he said.

"False alarm calls to unregistered burn-offs take volunteer firefighters away from workplaces, families and other emergencies."

If you light a fire without a permit during the Fire Danger Period, you could be charged with breaking the law. Penalties may include a fine up to $19,342 and/or up to 12 months imprisonment.

Please note: The CFA will be holding an Open Day on Sunday, 10th November 2019 at 10am at Rene Fox Gardens on Broadway, Dunolly.

Looking for students and teachers who were at Maryborough Technical College in Year 7(1978), Year 8 (1979), and Year 9 (1980).

There is a Maryborough Technical College reunion being held in Maryborough over the same weekend as the Maryborough Energy Breakthrough. I was particularly taken with the wonderful sense of community with students of all ages running with, and supporting each other, so everyone could experience the fun. A huge thanks to the PFA for setting up and packing up the course, the Dunolly CFA for providing two trucks to wet the students so the colour stuck, and all the helpers in the canteen who provided the awesome sausage sizzle afterwards. ALL SPONSORSHIP FORMS AND MONEY ARE DUE BACK BY TOMORROW PLEASE.

HATS

All students are required to wear a broad brimmed hat. They are available for purchase from the office for $8. Please ensure your child's hat and clothing is named. There is also a large collection of jumpers and jackets outside the junior classrooms – all unnamed.

HEAD LICE

We continue to have regular reported cases of head lice. Please be vigilant in checking your child's hair and treating it thoroughly. Eggs must all be removed. If we all work together we can keep them at bay.

Unregistered firearms the focus of amnesty

Central Goldfields residents are being urged to hand in unwanted, illegal or un-registered firearms over the next few months as part of an amnesty. The amnesty period, which began on Friday last week, allows members of the public to surrender firearms and weapons to police stations without fear of prosecution.

Central Goldfields is one of 12 local government areas involved in the amnesty including Mount Alexander, Loddon, Campaspe, Greater Bendigo and Macedon Ranges. It is the first time an amnesty has been held in Victoria since the Australia-wide three month amnesty in 2017, where more than 3400 items were surrendered in Victoria Police's western region.

Superintendent Paul Margetts said the community has until the end of December to present to police any illegal or unwanted firearms for them to be destroyed.

"There are currently more than 856,000 registered firearms across the state, but it's the unregistered firearms and dangerous weapons in the community that Victoria Police is constantly trying to reduce," he said. "We've seen in previous amnesties a number of items voluntarily surrendered, included high-powered firearms, handguns, imitation firearms and air rifles. "In our local area during this amnesty, Victorians will be able to anonymously surrender firearms to their local police station or a licensed firearms dealer."

Superintendent Margetts said firearm theft from farms is a particular concern. "In Victoria, we know firearm theft, especially from rural properties, is a concern. Rural and regional property owners are at risk of firearm theft because of geographic isolation and extended absences from properties where firearms are stored," he said. "The majority of registered firearm owners are very responsible and treat firearms ownership with the seriousness it deserves. License holders are required to use common sense to store their firearms safely and securely and in accordance with legislative requirements at all times. We are asking everyone to contribute to improving community safety by surrendering items that could pose a danger or before they fall into the wrong hands."

Residents are encouraged to ring their local police station before bringing items in. All firearms must be wrapped in paper, plastic or cloth and transported to a police station in a safe and secure manner. Anyone who has a registered firearm can hand the item to a licensed firearm dealer, at any time for sale or destruction. Local residents can drop off firearms at their local police station or Maryborough's licensed firearms dealer Golden Flash Cartridge until December 31, 2019.

The penalty for possessing an unregistered firearm starts from $19,800 or two years imprisonment.
